High Ratio Maths Classes Concerns Stewarttown Parent
 Last Thursday J. R. Bellamy Stewarttown Senior Public School where his daughter is enrolled.
 Mr. Bellamy said 'My primary complaint is that despite the effort and expense put into the development of the Senior Public Schools, the end result in this instance is that nearly 80 percent of the students take Math in classes with 100 to 2 pupil teacher ratio far higher than we have been accustomed to over the past 10 years or more.'
 "My secondary complaint is that I should have to appear here and take up your time in order to bring a complaint before a lay body. It seems a structural defect in the Board's organization that there is no lay authority at the local level to provide lay leadership, and to serve as a forum for suggestions and complaints," he stated.
 An account of the situation and action taken by Mr. Bellamy is as follows: "Maths classes at Stewarttown are conducted in a large group instruction area, with a program of individualized instruction. Two teachers conduct each of the six classes. Two of these classes have 65-70 students; the other four have 100 or more. My daughter is in one of the latter."
 "In mid-September I asked Mr. Jack Reed, the principal, if there were any prospect of reducing the size of these classes or of securing an extra teacher for them. I was advised that with the staff available and the general financial stringency, no change could be contemplated."
 "Shortly after this, formation of the Special Task Force was announced and this provoked me to write a letter to the local paper. Mr. Reed responded to my letter and we had further correspondence and a discussion. On November 7 and again on November 26, when it was clear to me that effective action was beyond Mr. Reed's authority, I asked how to proceed to bring this question before the board, and on December 5 Mr. Reed referred me to Mr. Chapman. I did not write to Mr. Chapman until January 27, but had no reply before writing directly to the Secretary on March 28."
