Former MacDonal Dean Relates Life in Ghana

An introduction to life in Ghana was provided last week for the University Women's Club by Dr. Margaret McCready, Dean of Macdonald Institute, Guelph, from 1949 to 1969. Dr. McCready's talk was based on her two years as Professor of Home Economics at the University of Ghana, in Accra.

The speaker said Ghana, a country of over nine million people, possesses a sophisticated culture, showing the influence of over 500 years of contact with Europe and the Mediterranean. The culture is family-oriented, with reverence shown for the elderly, said Dr. McCready. "The women work especially hard to send their children to school," she added.

HANDICRAFT SAMPLES

Through slides, Dr. McCready illustrated the beauty of the country, and the types of housing in the villages and the city of Accra. Included were slides of the University of Ghana, where she taught. The speaker displayed samples of Ghanaian handicrafts in the form of brass, leather and cotton articles.

The business portion of the meeting was conducted by president Eleanor Langdon. The slate of officers, presented by the nominating committee included: past president Eleanor Langdon, president Beth Steele, first vice president Mary Hughes, second vice president Marg Jacques, recording secretary Wendy Saxe, corresponding secretary Lea Sieveking, treasurer Mary McEwen, program chairman Sue Domenico, social convener Vivian Kruger, publicity convener Sandra Fleischer, and membership convener Joan Costain.

The annual meeting will be held May 1.

Members are now concentrating on the second annual Book Fair, to be held on Saturday, May 12, at the Georgetown Market Centre.

The club will resume activities in September on the first Tuesday of each month at the Canada Trust building on Main Street.

Three Schools Will Put Georgetown Back In Halton Music Festival

After a lapse of several years, Georgetown will be participating in the North Halton Music Festival this year.

The festival, now known as the North Halton Association for Performing and Creative Arts has three Georgetown schools, Joseph Gibbons, Howard Wigglesworth, and Centennial, taking part in the festival to be held at M. Z. Bennett school, in Acton, May 9.

The first Halton County Music Festival was held in 1928 largely through the efforts of Halton County Women's Institute, and at its height, around 1958, 9,000 students competed. Since that time the number of entrants have decreased, but now may be on the upswing again. The festival was divided into North and South.

HIGH SCHOOL SWIMMING POOL

What the People are Saying

This week The Herald conducted a public opinion poll as to what the community thought about locating the proposed new swimming pool at Georgetown and District High School.

"That is a very fine idea because the public should be working during school hours,"—Paul Barber, 3 Main North.

"If the public can use it, I say go ahead. If it is only for the high school students, forget it,"—Lorna Davey, Brampton.

"A good idea, terrific, a lot of people don't do winter exercises,"—Mrs. Margot Boughton, Ballinlad.

"There is no reason why it should be there and I am violently opposed. A pool inside the school gets minimum use and outside the school maximum use,"—Mary Simpson, 101 Kesway Drive.

"I think it's a good idea,"—Mrs. G. Masson, Acton.

"I think it's probably a proper location, providing they can work out a decent time sharing program,"—Brian Lyons, 28 Stockman Crescent.
