

Effort and Ability Pay Off At Trophy Presentation Time

There is something about playoff hockey, whether it is Stanley Cup play or minor hockey, you will see some excellent hockey played that is pleasing to both the officials and the fans.

This "something" was evident in our recent playoff tournaments. Many of the teams who finished higher in the league standings were eliminated by teams who showed more desire and strong team play. The semi-finals really started the ball rolling building up to the climax in the final game.

In the Jr. A. league, Superior Foods came from fourth place to become champions; in the American league sixth place finishers, Cleveland, made the champions, Dockeyray Plumbing & Heating, work hard for the win. Johnson & Carney of the N.H.L. League also came from sixth place to the finals and pushed the champion Armstrong Bros. real hard; the Senior League Final was the fastest and closest game of the day. Scotia Bank needing overtime to dispose of Park Toyota.

A new feature this year was the "B" Championship consisting of the bottom six teams in each league. Snowmobile Club required two overtime periods before stopping Depco in the Jr. A. final. Mac's Milk also went into overtime to defeat Kinsmen in the American League and Criterion Carpet won the N.H.L. division.

a long season, not in number of hours hockey was played, but in the length of months that was required to complete the schedule and playoffs.

We could have been out of the arena a month earlier but for the number of Saturdays that were not available to us. These days are taken away from minor hockey and in one five week period, we only played on two Saturdays. This makes conditioning difficult and more work for the managers and coaches, they are to be congratulated on a job well done.

Some personal reflections: Many thanks to the parents and fans who were always there in the stands cheering their sons and teams on, even at 5.30 in the morning; the individual players who would improve so well over the season that they made one feel that we had budding Frank Mahovlich's; the players and coaches who worked so hard on the snowmobile rally, both on the snow and on the balance sheet, final tally will be approximately $3400.00; the executive and commissioners who worked long hours to make minor hockey work.
