DOWNTOWN OBSERVER

William H. (Bill) Taylor, presides over the four corners at Main and Mill Streets every day when the weather is warm. From his lawn chair on the sidewalk, the 91 year old talks to all passersby. He likes to stay in the shade so picks up his lawn chair and moves from the front of McGibbon's Hotel, where he stays, to the front of the former Royal bank building. Mr. Taylor was born in Nassagaweya, but went west in 1903, where as a hobby he played the fiddle for dances.

Pipes, Firetruck Greet New Bride

Bagpipes and a firetruck produced a spectacular wedding, May 19, at 4 p.m. at Holy Cross Church, Georgetown. The bride and groom left the church to the sound of bagpipes. The wedding party then boarded Georgetown Fire Department's number six pumper manned by Tom Masini, Paddy Woods, Bill Barber, and Doug Harley for the procession through the streets.

The bride is Monica Joyce Moffatt of 32 Bairatow Crescent, daughter of Walter and Jane Moffatt. Joyce wore a lace organza over taffeta, a full-length skirt, long sleeves and a shoulder length veil. A cascade bouquet of red carnations, baby breath and white stephanotis was carried by the bride.

The groom, William Peter Hayes of 9A Main St. is the son of Gear and Jessie Hayes and is employed at American Motors in Brampton.

The ceremony was a double ring one, performed by Father DeVent. The bride was given away by her Rev. Walter Moffatt.

Matron-of-honor, Rose Kowalczyk wore a yellow chiffon shirt with a white top over taffeta. Bridesmaids Lynne O'Keefe, cousin of the bride, from Glace Bay, Evaughn Moffatt, sister of the bride, and Sandra McNeill, cousin of the bride, Toronto, wore blue, pink and yellow respectively of dotted swiss organza. They carried daisies and carnations tinted to match their dresses.

The flowergirl Ann Francis Moffatt, sister of the bride wore a mauve chiffon over taffeta and carried a basket of daisies and carnations tinted to match her dress.

The groom's attendants were Cecil Peacock, best man, Charles Moffatt, Terry Moffatt, Jack Hayes, lion Hayes, ushers, and Kenny Hayes the ring bearer.

The mother of the bride received wearing a long turquoise gown with an empire waist, long sleeves and a chiffon hood and a pink carnation corsage. The mother of the groom also received wearing a long mauve crimplene gown tripped with flowered braid and a corsage of yellow carnations.

The bride wore a pink checked pantsuit with a short waist jacket and baggy pants and a pink carnation corsage as she and her husband departed on their honeymoon. They traveled through Pennsylvania and visited Niagara Falls with their camper trailer. Following the honeymoon they will reside at 81B Main St. N. Georgetown.

Instead of throwing the bouquet the bride gave it to Granny Cann of Glace Bay, Nova Scotia. The toastmaster was Bud Hayes, uncle of the groom. It was the first time in forty years, Bud Hayes visited with all his brothers and sisters.

Showers for the bride had been held by Rose Kowalczyk, her aunt; Heather Hyde, sister of the groom; Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Gault, friends of the bride; office staff of Georgetown and District High School, where the bride works; and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Lawr, who held a party for the bride and groom.

BROWN OWL RETIRES

A presentation was made to Mrs. Sheila Pantling, Brown Owl of the ninth brownie pack at a father and daughter banquet, June 12, at the Lutheran church. Due to ill health she has resigned as Brown Owl but is staying on as deputy district commissioner for Georgetown-East. With Mrs. Pantling are two of her oldest brownies, Sharon Anderson and Kimberly MacLeod.

Ad valorem duty refers to a duty set up as a certain percentage of the cost of the goods.

AUXILIARY SUPPER Georgetown Hospital Women's Auxiliary held its annual pot luck supper in June at the home of Dorothy Bodnar. The evening included a white elephant auction, supported by the members. About $50 was raised for the membership.

Beauty Bugs Club Name

Sheila Foster was hostess to the third meeting of the 4-H Homemaking Garden Club last week.

When the girls and leaders first arrived at the Foster home they were given a demonstration by Robert Foster on how to plant a shrub. Later they had a tour of the garden and were shown the correct method of transplanting and thinning out of plants. There was a discussion on landscaping.

The group decided the name for the club would be The Ballinad Beauty Bugs.

The weatherman has been good in providing the showers, now it is to be hoped the sun shines to provide the much needed warmth for growth.

With some effort on the girls' part this project should be interesting and profitable.
