

Hornby's Garden Party Keeps Drawing Crowds

For the past 26 years, Hornby's annual garden party has been attracting crowds from all over the area, and this year's held Saturday, July 21, was no exception.

It was supposed to be a trio of three brothers, Wayne, Ronnie and Brant Lockie, who charmed the audience at Hornby garden party, with gospel songs and country music, but little sister Shelley, was invited to come up when she made it obvious that's where she wanted to be. (Herald Photos)

All the baseball teams in Hornby, and players' parents work together to line up the entertainers, bake the hundreds of pies, park the cars, then turn out to enjoy the fun. The proceeds from the event help to finance the Hornby ball clubs.

The familiar voice of Vince Mountford introduced entertainers, Margo Lucknow, and her performing horse Desert Sand, trampoline artist The Rebounders, comedian Jackie Cooper, accordionist Jimmy McNulty, and country and western singer, Don of Donn and Cindy. Cindy was unable to appear because of a strep throat. Jack Ayre was at the piano.

Local talent had a chance to thrill the audience at the beginning of the show.

Gospel singing by brothers Wayne, Ronnie and Brant Lockie was warmly applauded by the crowd, while the high clear voice of Tommy Perritt demanded encores. Highland dancers Doreen Linvay and Cathy Arnold had feet tapping in the audience.

A ball game started the evening, while pony rides kept the younger fry happy.

The next morning a party of club members, headed by Earl McDowell, president and garden party chairman Jack Thorpe conducted a cleanup of the park.

CATHY ARNOLD'S kilt performed at Hornby garden party. Doreen danced out of the picture at the last minute.

LEGION NOTES

Four Weeks Left In Car Club Draw

by WRIGHT SMITH

First of all, it is only right that last week's omission be rectified, so here are the winners from car club draw number 21: Win Telford, Fred Baxter, Ace Bailey, Mary Russell, Don Jarvie, Roy Puckering.

Steak winners Friday, July 20, were Art Hiltz (2), Herman Nicholson (2), Barney Wilcox, Art Roberts, Jimmy Layton, Alf Sykes, Woody Hamilton and Frank Hardy.

And last, but not least, here are the mini-bingo winners for July 21: Barb Burns, Bill Haden, Edna Ripon, Leona Postlethwaite and Helen Wilkes with the full house.

On Saturday, July 28, the Road Runners played to a near-capacity crowd. If the last six or seven weeks are anything to go by, it seems one has to be there early to ensure a well-positioned table.

Next week, August 4, we can look forward to the first visit to Georgetown of a group called The Tees and if, like me, you're curious to know how they sound, there is only one way to find out. But, be there early.

Our service officer, J.J. McCarthy, tells me that the provincial service officer will visit the branch again in September. I mention it at this early date to inform all readers that you do not have to be a Legion member to avail yourself of this service. Any veteran, or dependent of a veteran, can attend for an interview. It is not necessary to make an appointment, but of course, such arrangements would be appreciated.

Well, as the car club roars into the straight (four weeks to go) here are the names drawn Friday July 27: Doug Herrington, Don McFarlane, Marg Hodder, R. Miller, Herb Louth, Gord Coughlan.

And the steak-hunters who made a killing at darts the same evening were: Hank

AIR CADETS

756 Squadron Cadets At Summer Camp

by WARREN ALBERT

Once again, the highlight of an air cadet's year with his squadron, summer camp, is being held for two weeks at Canadian Forces Base Trenton. Seventeen cadets representing 756 Squadron will get a real thrill at living the way of the armed forces for a while.

During their stay at camp, the boys are under very strict military discipline. After getting up at 6.30 a.m. the tent must be cleaned. If the tent is not up to par during the tent inspection, the cadets are confined to barracks on their free time. Then the cadets come out of their tents half frozen to death by the wind coming off the bay, and form up to go to mess.

Morning parade comes after that and then come the various subjects. These subjects include drill, and tours to the local beach, Toronto, Royal Military College, Fort Henry, the control tower and the airport at the base. There is also gliding at the airport in Mountview, flying in an Otter, sailing, canoeing, sports, orienteering, guidance, leadership, lectures, films, service information, shooting with 22's and FN rifles.

The cadets' free time comes after six o'clock. During this time he can go to the canteen or the recreation tent where he can play ping-pong, cards, checkers and chess, or he can watch a movie which is shown every once in a while. He must also polish his shoes and brass during free time.

There are between 500 and 600 boys at each two week summer camp. The squadrons come from all across Ontario, and one from the Canadian Forces in Germany. With so many boys the same age and in the same place, a cadet meets many people and makes many friends.

At first, all the shoe and brass polishing, drill and discipline are kind of rough, but after a while he gets used to it and even enjoys it.

In addition to this two week camp in Trenton there is a three week camp which includes courses such as intermediate leader's, taken by F.S. Mark Rush; junior leader's, taken by Cpl. Jeff Jubb; sports, taken by LAC Brock Rush; and orienteering, taken by Cpl. Warren Albert.

we've changed our name... but we're still the same

United Gas Limited, which has been providing gas service in this area since 1913, has now officially amalgamated with Union Gas Limited.

Actually, United Gas has been a key member of the Union Gas organization for many years and the two companies have long been operating under basically the same sales, service and other policies. Thus, this amalgamation will not significantly affect either our customers or our employees.

Of course, we will be gradually introducing the Union Gas name for all company identification. Office signs, service trucks, gas bills and advertising will all carry the Union Gas symbol or signature.

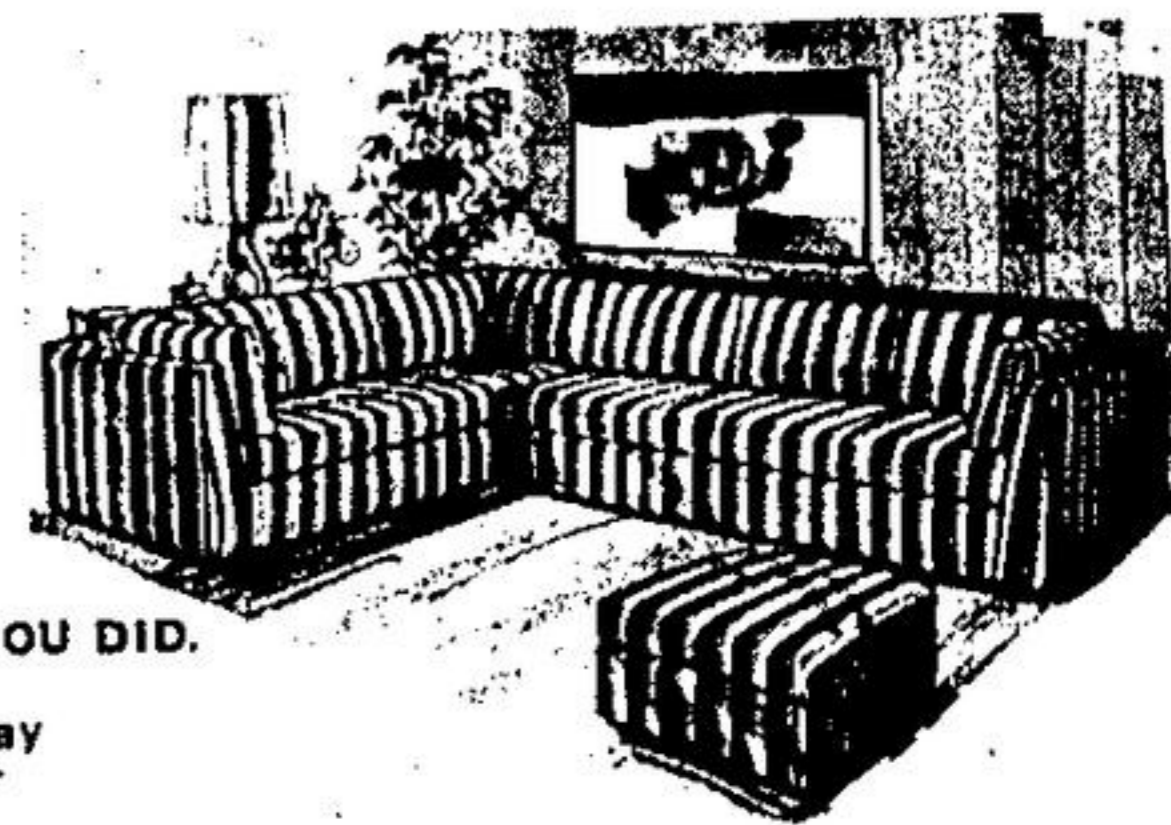

Other than that, no change. You just don't change a 60-year reputation for service with a new name.
