Too Much Advertising?
PERHAPS — BUT...

More likely we simply see and hear too much about products we are not interested in buying. One thing is certain, when the time comes to shop for that important item, such as a color TV, the customer definitely needs more help than he or she can gather from the quickie commercial.

In this space for weeks to come will be a series of opinions on What You Should Know in Buying Color TV as unbiased as we can make it, but we hope you will look to this space weekly.

We will explain Solid State color TV, modular construction, new development in picture tubes, changes in television service, etc.
