

Three-Week Tour Of Europe For Couple From The Glen

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Presswood have just returned from a three-week tour of Europe. The Glen Williams couple compiled this record of their trip.

We left Malton by CP Air, Sept. 22, for London and the Royal Scot Hotel where we spent two days of sight-seeing in London. Here we met the rest of the people who would travel with us on the continent.

There were 14 from Ontario, four from the Maritimes and the remainder of the 45 were from Vancouver, Victoria and other towns on the West Coast.

Monday evening a bus took us along with our guide Constantine to Harwich where we embarked for an overnight trip across the North Sea to Holland. As we had berths we spent a comfortable night. Disembarking at 8 a.m. we were met by our young Dutch driver Cor and a new bus which would take us on our tour of six countries and 10 cities. Our guide had spent 10 years in Saskatchewan but had returned to England and now lives in London. He speaks seven languages and was indeed very helpful to us all.

We toured The Hague with its government buildings, though the palace is in Amsterdam, had a tour of Amsterdam with a very charming young lady as guide, visited a diamond cutting firm and a small wooden shoe manufacturing plant.

We also visited the village of Volendam where the people wear national costumes and entertain tourists. An overnight stay in Bonn, Germany, took us on a cruise on the Rhine to view the castles and the famed Lorelei Rock; then to the university city of Heidelberg. Here we visited a fine old castle with its wine cellars and were given a sample of the wine made there.

Innsbruck, Austria was only an overnight stop and much too short a stay in this lovely city. Sunday, we crossed the Brenner Pass into Italy. Here we had our first snow although there was lots of snow on the mountains. Our next stop was Venice, where it rained most of the time.

However, we visited St. Marks, a glass factory, and were entertained at a tavern and served champagne. The four singers, three men and a Scots girl entertained us by singing Italian songs which were familiar as Santa Lucia, Come Back to Sorrento, Isle of Capri, and others.

It was very much enjoyed by all. We then went further south to beautiful Florence. Again our time was much too short but we did see paintings by Michael Angelo and Leonardo da Vinci. Paintings on the ceiling of many famous buildings are truly awe-inspiring.

Rome, visited St. Peter's, the Sistine Chapel and the Coliseum. One day we took a side trip to Naples and Capri. On the way we passed Monte Casino where Canadian troops were engaged in one of the great battles of the Italian campaign. This brought back memories to Albert who was with the Canadian army at this time.

It was a beautiful, warm, sunny day when we crossed from Naples to Capri, in a hovercraft. As the sea was calm, we were able to visit the beautiful Blue Grotto and also after lunch high on the mountainside, we were shown the magnificent home of Graciele Fields, situated on the shore of a quiet bay.

We returned to Rome late at night after a visit to Sorrento and dinner at a hotel in Pompeii. Next morning we left for Milan, a thriving industrial city and the largest in Italy.

Again, an overnight stay was much too short but we had to be on our way to Switzerland. Again on a Sunday we crossed the amazing St. Gotthard's Pass that winds in hairpin bends up from Italy and down into Switzerland.

Near Lucerne we stayed at the Hotel Ffirregen high on a mountain which was reached by means of cable car carrying 15 people and travelling 750 feet up the mountainside.

The view from here was superb but the weatherman was unkind and we had rain most of the time. We had a half day of sight-seeing and shopping in Lucerne and an evening lake cruise where fondue and wine were served.

We were entertained by a group of young people modelling native costumes and singing and yodelling.

A very long and tiring day's ride took us from Lucerne to Paris. There was some kind of demonstration going on and armored police cars lined the streets.

Our guide informed us this was quite a common occurrence. A tour of Paris occupied our morning and a trip to Versailles took an afternoon. Here is the famous Hall of Mirrors as well as the apartments of the Louis, former kings of France.

From Paris, we went to Calais visiting a Canadian cemetery near Amiens then crossed the channel to Folkestone where a bus conveyed us back to the Royal Scot.

Friday evening we were given a farewell dinner and said goodbye and thank you to Constantine.

Saturday, along with Mr. and Mrs. Stan Nolan, also from Georgetown we went down river to Greenwich where we visited the sailing ship Cutty Sark and also a marine museum.

Sunday we were taken by bus to the airport and our plane to return home.

Three weeks is much too short a time to see everything but it does give one an idea where to return for another visit perhaps sometime in the future.

Bridge Play On 12 Tables

Twelve tables of duplicate bridge were played on October 30 at the Georgetown Legion.

For north-south it was a tie between Mike Lorusso and Richard Prust, and Arthur Kwei and Sid Heller. Third place went to Nancy Breefoot and Barb Fisher; fourth to Bina Adams and Barbara Wood; and fifth to Ted Stanley and Irwin Hermelyn.

For east-west, it was Jim White and Frank Martin; Jim Sargent and Leo Kistemaker; Harry Arbie and Joan Harris; Lynna Kwei and George Breefoot; and Ron Jones and Roy Turton.

LEGION NOTES

Remembrance Services Scheduled For Sunday

by WRIGHT SMITH

"And that the country in which we live, and for which they died, May ever be worthy of the Sacrifice they made."

Ladies and gentlemen, these are words well known to every Legion member, they form part of the opening ceremony of all Legion meetings.

We, and I hope, you will be at the Cenotaph in Remembrance Park on Sunday at 2 p.m. to pay tribute and homage to the more than 100,000 Canadians of two world wars and the Korean conflict whose graves in foreign fields in far-off lands or under the seven seas have made these spots forever Canada. They died for an ideal, and we who are left are their trustees and the custodians of their hopes.

In recent history we have experienced two world wars. Wars are fought by idealists, with their lives at stake because of irreconcilable differences of belief about a way of life, that is threatened by a different belief. Wars are fought because of ideals, but wars cannot destroy ideals, wars only remove the material threat to a nation's safety—the ideals remain. Ideals cannot be removed by stretching them out in the street and running over them with a tank.

You cannot destroy ideals by burning books, or shooting down fighter planes, or by atom-bombing whole cities out of existence. You cannot destroy ideals at all. That is why the Western democracies in the 20th Century have successfully repulsed the military threat to their safety in two world wars. If democracy, freedom, justice and mutual respect are worth two world wars in 25 years, then surely they must be worth the best that is in all of us between times. If we teach us nothing else, it should teach us that our beliefs, and our way of life are values that must be renewed constantly.

WAY OF LIFE

Each Canadian, Veteran or not, Canadian born or not, can enjoy the Canadian way of life only so long as each is ready to live a life embodying the ideals for which our comrades, BRANCH 120, Royal Canadian Legion's Imperial Section president Alex Goldie presents a chair to Matt McDonogh at a dance held Saturday at the Legion Hall. The chair was donated by Homestead Interiors.

Mrs. Millhouse of Brampton and the second prize was won by Bill Clarke of Ospringe.

Sharpshooters in the Friday night steak-hunt were: Bridget Syme, (there come those Syme's again) Grace Hamilton, Ken Nash, Liz Rogers, George and Myrna Brailey, Bill McCandless, Ken Grant, Doreen Robinson and Denny McCartney.

And while we are naming names, mini-bingo winners on Saturday were: George Mudie, Alice Hiltz, Doris McCartney and Barbara Burns won the full house.

Six guys have 10 reasons for remembering Car Club draw number seven which was made on Friday. They are George Webster, Jim Ford, Boyd Lantz, Ron McGowan, Friend Garbutt, and Bill Stansel.

GRAND PRIZE

To mark back to the stag of Friday, Oct. 26, the grand prize was a share-out between Sandy MacGregor, J. Haynes, Joe South, M. Chaisson, Bill Campbell and Jim Carney.

Branch members are reminded that the restrictions on the sale of Armistice Dinner tickets will be lifted on Wednesday, Nov. 14. After that date, any that remain will be sold to members who want to take guests. Have you got yours yet?

Christmas draw tickets will be mailed out to Legion and Auxiliary members during the coming week. Comrade Gord King is once again in charge of this venture and it is requested that all monies be turned in to him as soon as possible. Thank you.

Our tireless vice-president Denny Wright informs me that a telephone committee has been formed to contact all branch and auxiliary members in order to establish an up-to-date list of all children 10 years of age and under who are eligible to attend the Annual Christmas Tree.

A thoughtful addition to this year's Remembrance Day observance will be a service held at the Glen Williams War Memorial at 12.30 on Sunday, Nov. 11. It is hoped that this service will be attended by enough people to warrant making this an annual mark of respect.

The Georgetown Armistice Day parade will assemble at 1.30 p.m. outside the Legion Hall on Sunday, Nov. 11. From there it will move off to the Cenotaph in Remembrance Park where the service will be held. And lest we forget—are you wearing a poppy now?

Mrs. Breen Off To Make Delivery — Herald Photo

New Service Is Delivery

Georgetown has a new delivery service, and that service is Mrs. Marion Breen.

Mrs. Breen, of 54 Sargent Rd., says "the idea of the delivery service is that someone who does not want to go to a store, bank, or whatever, can phone me, and I will deliver what they want."

"I think Georgetown needs this service," Mrs. Breen said. "It will help the senior citizens, particularly during the winter months."

Mrs. Breen operates the delivery service from her home using her own car and business telephone.

"I went to the town police and town council, and they both gave me the go-ahead for the project," Mrs. Breen added.

When asked if she was getting many delivery calls, she replied, "I have done more business than I thought I would do, and business should pick up around Christmas."

"I like meeting people, and I think this service contributes to the community," Mrs. Breen said. "And I like the job."

somebody's son or daughter, laid down their lives.

How can each of us live to be worthy of the ideals for which these martyrs died?

We can expound the cause of freedom in everyday action. Freedom is not to be confused with licence. There are not four freedoms or 40 freedoms or 4,000 freedoms—freedom is a condition of action in which the individual has a right to do the things which are right. Day to day service. It is not unreasonable, that we should give something of ourselves in return.

Let us never forget what it cost. "To you from falling hands, we throw the Torch; be yours to hold it high. If ye break faith with us who die, We shall not sleep, though poppies grown in Flanders fields."

BENEFIT NIGHT

We are happy to report that the Imperial Benefit Night for Matt McDonogh was a sell-out success. Matt looked as if he was settled for the night when he tried out the chair donated by Homestead Interiors and Furniture, unfortunately Jack Pietense was unable to attend to make the presentation in person, owing to a previous commitment, but Imperial Section President Alex Goldie did a "marvellous job" as stand-in.

The door prize, a table lamp, was won by Andy Syme, first prize in the raffle was won by We'll be happy to tell you what all the smiling is about.

He buys his own ball gloves, skates, fishing rod, skis and all the other "necessities" that youngsters hold so dear.

He has complete financial independence.

He doesn't rely on Mom or Dad for his mallee money, banks his allowance (and a good portion of the money he earns as a Herald carrier boy, and when it comes to college time, he can give his parents a hand with tuition fees (even if they don't need it).

He's a confident young man gaining experience in dealing with the public, slowly but surely learning the intricacies of managing his own business and secure in the knowledge that comes with watching his bank account grow.

He's dependable (the folks along his route will vouch for that).

And he's a nice boy (we'll vouch for that).
