

GLEN WILLIAMS

The Glen Boy's Youth Group, held a draw last week, for a $50 bond, which was won by Earl Cuthbert, of Glen Williams. One half of the proceeds has been donated towards the purchase of equipment for the children's ward in the Georgetown and District Memorial Hospital. The other half of the proceeds will be used for a busy trip, which will be taken by the boys, Dec. 28, to tour the Agricultural College in Guelph.

At the end of this year, Gran Emerson, Roy Leunenberger and Ted Findley, will be taking over the leadership, for Mr. and Mrs. Stan Norton, who have led the Boys Group, for the past couple of years.

Pollution Probe held its monthly meeting, last Wednesday evening, at the Glen hall. The speaker was S. A. Finlay, assistant manager of Domtar Fine Papers. He gave a lively and interesting talk about the history of Domtar, a description of its operation, and a detailed description of the chemical treatment of the effluent.

He commented on its present policy for recycling its own waste, and the company's involvement in the processing of post-consumer waste.

A hopeful note for residents around Domtar locality is the probable end of animal protein as the coating adhesive.

This protein is the main cause of the odor from the settling ponds. The adverse weather greatly affects the conditions under which the bacteria grows, causing under certain conditions, this bacteria can lay dormant. The members who attended this meeting, from the Glen area were, Jean Gauthier, Bert Cocks, Barbara Chodura, Beth and Flemming Mathiasen, Maureen Browning, and Pam and John Mitchell. All members of Pollution Probe, are urged to attend the Planning Board meeting, being held this evening November 28, at the Georgetown High School, in regard to the rezoning of land in Georgetown. The next Pollution Probe meeting will not be held during the month of December, but will be rescheduled for sometime in January.

It has been pointed out, that Georgetown council has decided to spend, up to $5,000 dollars this year, for decorative Christmas trees, which will be lit up, attached to the lamp standards on Guelph Street. This is an interesting item to note, considering, we are in a period of energy conservation.

Visitations have been held recently, by St. John's United Church, here in the Glen. The team captain, Mr. Ed Green, reported the following names of visitors; Mrs. John Wagstaffe, Mrs. Cecil Barth, Nan Wheeler, Una Wheeler, Ruth DeForest, Marion Hunter, Alice Engleby, and Mary Giler. Leaders and helpers are needed at St. John's Church, in the Glen. The church has strong cub, scouts, brownies, explorers, CGIT, and young peoples programs, and would like to see an interest in the organization of new groups, where room is available. Through the church, there is an opportunity for richer friendships, meaningful worship, and challenging thinking. Because of communication gaps in the church, often one group does not know what another group is doing. Motions have been passed, but no one has carried out executive action on these motions. Meetings with challenging speakers have been missed because of non-publicity to the church at large. The church has the facilities to provide greater church fellowship, through more frequent pot-luck suppers, picnics, sing-songs, group studies, and group discussions. Mission study sessions are needed, in order to know more about the church's work, at home and abroad, where, continual support is needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Horice Bell have had the pleasure of a visit by Miss Ruth Goodman, from Montreal. Ruth arrived two weeks ago, returning home, this past weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Bell, are also proud to announce the recent arrival of their fourth grand-child, Jennifer Shannon Maveal, a new daughter, for Bonnie and Don Maveal of Glen Williams.

At last Thursday evenings euchre sessions, ten tables were put in at St. Alban's hall, here in the Glen. Two people tied for high, on the white cards, Keith Findley and Muriel Miller. The second high winner was Gord Harley, and Dave Campbell was low. The high winner on the pink cards, was Mrs. Hazel Robinson, second, Grace Brenner, and low, Karen Ireland. The groceries were won by Stanley Hancock.

At the Glen Scout meeting, held on Monday evening, Nov. 19, two new boys were invested as scouts. They were, Bob Hunter of RR 1, Terra Cotta, and Brian Grady of RR 5, Georgetown.
