The Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund is NOT insurance

Last week my buddy went to renew his automobile licence and was told he would have to pay $40 in addition to the licence fee if he couldn't prove he had $50,000 automobile liability insurance. Why does he have to pay this extra $40?

This $40 is a mandatory payment required by The Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Act, to be paid by an uninsured motorist or driver. Ontario law requires the motorist to have a minimum of $50,000 liability insurance or pay the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund fee before being issued a vehicle licence. If a motorist fails to provide for insurance himself he has to pay $40 into the Fund to ensure that innocent victims involved in any accident he may be responsible for, are provided with up to $50,000 in damages from the Fund, depending on the decision of the Court.

The innocent victim is therefore protected to this extent by law against the uninsured motorist.

Not insurance

How much insurance coverage does this $40 fee give? This fee does not, in any way, provide the motorist with any kind of insurance coverage. By choosing not to carry even a minimum amount of automobile liability insurance, the motorist has stacked incredible odds against himself.

Even though a motorist has paid his $40 for the privilege of driving his motor vehicle on the roads, he is still not protected. Because of this, he is liable for the full amount of the judgment if found responsible for causing an accident. Such judgments can be disastrous. For example, Court awards are often based on the future earning potential of the victim. Payments to the family of a 25-year-old, $15,000-a-year man can add up to a crippling lifetime debt against the uninsured motorist.

Being an owner and/or an operator of an uninsured motor vehicle, what is his position if he is involved in a motor vehicle accident?

If an uninsured motorist has caused or contributed to an accident one of two things can happen:

(1) A claim may be made by the innocent victim directly to The Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund for payment of damages. If this occurs, the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations will advise the uninsured motorist by registered mail (his last recorded address) as to what steps he might take to protect his interests.

(2) If a judgment or a claim is paid from the Fund, on the motorist's behalf, the owner's and driver's licences will be suspended until the full amount has been paid or instalment payments have commenced. At the same time, he must file a certificate of insurance to prevent the Fund being called upon to pay a second time.

One notice

How does he know that a claim has been made against him? As soon as a claim is received by the Director of Claims, the uninsured motorist and/or driver is advised by registered mail at the last address with the Ministry of Transportation and Communications.

There will be only one notice.

It is most important for the motorist to realize that by not providing himself with adequate liability insurance and using the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund, he can find himself paying for one accident for the rest of his life.
