THE HERALD

Home Newspaper of Georgetown, Acton and Esquesing

A Division of Canadian Newspapers Company Limited 103 Main St. South, Georgetown, L7G-3E5, Ontario.

THE HERALD Wednesday, January 16, 1974 Page 2B

RICHARD CAMERON, Publisher

COMMERCIAL ARRIVAL

Hello To A Newcomer

It's always nice to welcome a new industry to a community.

This week, we say Hello to William Neilson Ltd., which is moving into Halton Hills, in a former plant of General · Fireproofing, located at the eastern entrance to the community of Georgetown.

The Neilson company is known as a good corporate citizen, and it prides itself on being a responsible member of the community.

Neilson will be using the Georgetown location as a distribution centre. Initially, this means that manufacture of chocolate confections will not be taking place. Instead, the plant will serve as a distribution point for the company's products, serving many thousands of outlets.

But the acquisition is a big one. The plant acquired has huge floor capacity, extensive shipping facilities and is located on 40 acres of land in the community's industrial park.

There is plenty of room for expansion.

And expansion would be as welcome as the arrival of the company itself.

The new year has got off to an auspicious beginning.

Ours A Civilized Society?

It was one of those incidents that was almost incredible. Yet it occurred in our so-called civilized society here in North American. A couple in their 90s, living in poverty in Schenectady, New York, was found dead recently - evidently having frozen to death because they had not paid electricity bills of about $250.

The couple had lived in their rundown cottage for 40 years. But because they were behind in their payments for a few months, the utility company cut off their electric power. This, in turn, caused the gas furnace that heated the house to stop operating. The two old people froze to death in temperatures of about 12 degrees above zero.

Who is to blame for this needless tragedy? Partly the utility company, of course. But essentially it is the impersonal, urbanized society which we have created, and in which many millions of us now are forced to live. The crew that was ordered to cut off the electricity almost certainly had no idea that two helpless people were being condemned to death, a horrible death by freezing. It is all very well for a local person to say that the couple, Frank and Katherine Baker, had been fiercely' independent.

The truth is that after 40 years in one home, they did not wish to

In a more normal, more humanistic society, a way would have been found to pay their outstanding electricity bill. As the Western world moves into a troubled 1974, perhaps it ought to take another look at the less affluent, traditional societies of Asia and Africa where human values differ. Can we call ours a Christian society when two old people are allowed to freeze to death in their house because they owe $250 to a utility company?

Conservation Smallness

Don Wright, supervisor, publishing and information services, Ontario Hyrdo, has come up with his own answer to the energy crunch. He wants to produce smaller people.

Writing in the November-December issue of Hydro News, in his back page column of comment, he declares "we must start making smaller people."

"Firm He continues: government leadership is the first requisite. All biologists and genetic engineers should be called in and the national goal made clear - three-foot people by 2050, two feet by 3000...

"Jonathan Swift had somewhat the same idea century or so ago, but his Lilliputians were only six inches high and had nothing to do with conservation. Quick slide rule calculations suggest that two feet is about the minimum if we are to tote around a brain big enough to cope with the few problems which see likely to "The mind boggles at the advantages. Car pools with 25 heated with four quarts of oil per year. Fifteen people sharing a tubfull of hot water...

"Granted, this is no short-term some measures may be feasible. fines on people caught taking way car."

Do you suppose he might be right? Would it, indeed, be easier to make people smaller, instead of people per vehicle. Houses the size of insulated beehives and each solution. We can't do much with the people we already have, but French fries, cream puffs and chocolate eclairs could be banned immediately. We could also base our tax structure on waist measurements and impose stiff vitamins. This wouldn't shorten us up much, but at least we's be able to crowd more people into a sub-the world bigger?

ECHOES FROM THE PAST

10 YEARS AGO

Two Georgetown boys, Brian Beaumont and Richard Lavell, met the famous hockey Howes in Detroit when they visited that city for a novice hockey encounter. The two were billeted at the home of Mark and Marty Howe and met the famous father, Gordie.

Esquesing School Board filled a vacancy by appointing Russell Miller to the board. He was one of five prospective members, and was a past president of Stewarttown Home and School Association.

Despite opposition from Mayor Joseph Gibbons, 1964 centennial celebrations for Georgetown remained alive. Mayor Gibbons objected because a centennial celebration was held in 1937, and he favored a celebration in conjunction with Canada's centennial in 1967. Coun. Jim Emmerson said Georgetown was incorporated in 1864, but was settled in Acton Chamber of Commerce's Twelfth Night bonfire was as big a spectacle as it was supposed to be, because the hundreds of discarded Christmas trees to be used as fuel were used as a trampoline by children.

Georgetown YM-YWCA readied plans for ski-schooling at the Kelso dam and 20 skiers were registered Georgetown skier Francis Hulme was named as instructor.

20 YEARS AGO

When a Glen Williams woman was unable to get to hospital in Brampton because of slippery roads, Reeve Stan Allen's home on Mill Road became an auxiliary hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ford were on their way to Brampton for the birth of their second child and found it impossible to return home or to climb the icy Ninth Line hill. Dr. A. McAllister attended at the birth of a ninepound boy.

Annual meeting of Ballinafad Hall was held and plans were begun to renovate the hall. Work was scheduled to start as soon as weather permitted. Lloyd Marshall acted as chairman for the meeting and Mrs. Tom Gibson was secretary.

Two new coroners were appointed to serve the northern part of Halton County. They were Dr. J. II. Chamberlain of Georgetown and Dr. Douglas Garrett of Acton.

Mac Alexander was elected president of the Halton Jersey Club for 1954 at the club's annual meeting.

Mrs. Arthur Beaumont was elected president of the Ladies' Guild of St. Alban's Anglican Church. Retiring president was Mrs. H. F. Beaumont,

30 YEARS AGO

Craig Reid was chosen as president of Georgetown Fall Fair Board, with W. J. Alexander serving as first vice-president and D. Charles as second vice-president. Treasurer's reports showed a surplus of close

Two months of practice and rehearsal culminated in the opening of a four-act musical comedy in Acton, Soup Stock. The production, with an all-local cast, was under the direction of R.R. Parker.

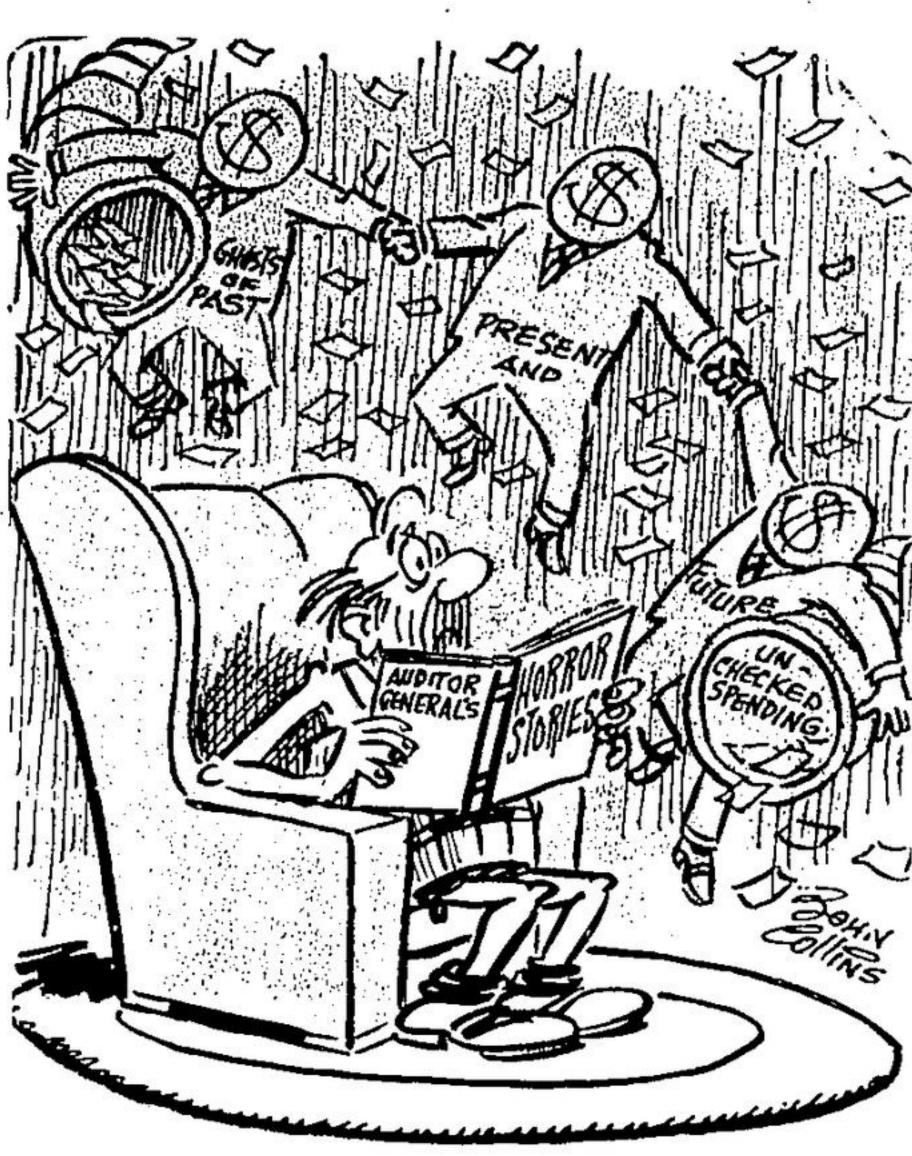

War theme continued to fill the fare of films shown at the Gregory Theatre in Georgetown. Night Plane to Chungking was followed by Salute To The Marines. For variety, there was a Bob Hope film, Let's Face It.

Pte. Bruce Harley wrote home to his parents in Georgetown, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Harley, about a trip he made to Mount Etna In Sicily, during his tenure with Canadian forces there. On the trip up the mountain, the truck carrying his party ran into a British

New vehicle permits for 1944 were late in arriving, so in Ontario sale of the items was posponed to Jan. 24. Motorists had to present their 1943 plates for validation, and collection of a windshield sticker.

Meeting of the Terra Cotta Union of Farm Organizations and Federated Form Women's Clubs met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Leslie, and attendance was 50 per-Band instrument numbers were provided by Ross Petch and Mrs. George Leslie gave a report about a UFO convention held in Toronto.

Some of us got Books for Christmas This Year

BILL SMILEY

Cat And Mouse Game And He's The Mouse

This week I've been batching it, and I just say that I miss my wife. It's not that I can't cook and wash dishes and make the bed and do all those other silly things that our poor wives have to do day after day, year after year. No, there's no problem there. It's the danged cats. They're driving me out of the remnants of what was once a fine mind.

I'd rather live with a herd of goats than with two cats. I've concluded Take one elderly she-cat who has been spayed. She was quite content with life. She is beautiful and very. very distant except when she's hungry. There isn't a bone in her body that is friendly. She just wants you to keep your distance, feed her well, and let her bask on a sunny stalrtread. In return, she will guarantee not to make a mess in the house. I had just begun to tolerate her, if not like her, after about six years.

TOM CAT Now, add a boisterous young tom cat. He's as agile as an òrangautan, has an appetite like a polar bear. has the manners of a pig, and lie has completely is sickeningly friendly. disrupted what was a fairly quiet, peaceful household. He is driving the old cat out of her nut. He follows her around, licking and kissing her, until she spits, takes a swipe at him and makes him back off long enough for her to skedaddle to one of her hideouts. He looks hurt.

All you have to do is settle down with a newspaper and a cup of tea, and he's quite likely to come flying through the air, sending the paper one way and the tea the other, as he seeks soluce for his yearning heart.

Given any encouragement whatever, he'll climb all over you, digging his claws into your shoulders because he doesn't know any better, smoothing your face and neck in a wet, disgusting fashion, before thumping himself down for a rest on your stomach or chest or any other part of you that suits his convenience.

CLAWING Two minutes later, he bears the old cat sneaking around, digs his claws into your knee and takes a flying leap, off to court her some There's absolutely no sex involved. He just wants to be loved by a second mother, but she is a happy, childless widow, and wants to stay that way.

You can't even feed them together. She is a dainty eater. He eats like a wolf who has just broken a long fast. Put down two bowls. He gulps his while she is

QUEEN'S PARK

Ontario Financing On Disaster Course

BY DONOTHEARN Queen's Park Bureau

TORONTO Perhaps we just shouldn't let Bill Davis

Of The Herald .

handle money. Boh Nixon made a speech in Brantford. And he brought out something most of us are unlikely to remember. This is that in the fiscal year 1969-70 Ontario had a surplus of $150 million. The next year there was a deficit of $136 million. Then this rose to more than $500 million.

And in the three years since that last wonderful surplus the total deficits have been $1.6 billion.

The ball of wax, of course, the fact of life we are apt not to remember, is that the year we transferred from large surplus to large and growing deficit was the year Bill Davis took over from John Robarts.

It doesn't need a swami to foretell that the trend of our recent financing is a disaster course. The cost of financing the present debt this year will be better than $575 million or close to 10 percent of the total budget.

Let the pace increase continue and the cost of debt interest alone will grab as big a bite of the tax-payers pay cheque as not so long ago we used to grab to run the whole province.

Apologists can give many explanations for this headfirst sortie into deht. A favorite one is that we have

MONEY FUNNY

had to spend extra money to fight unemployment. But still you have to believe that if either John Robarts or Leslie Frost had been doing the shelling out it would have been different. Both had reputations for very creaky purses, perhaps stinginess, but the truth was they both had a very healthy respect for the value of the public dollar.

Bill Davis had never really been suspected of this. Rather the suspicion is that he doesn't have much idea of money at all.

Back in his Education days it was a well-known scuttlebutt that when on the road he never carried enough cash and that his subordinates would be shelling out for meals and incidentals. Then there was the instance of community colleges. These were a good idea but prophets predicted that under the wing or the Department of Education and its minister they would grow like a weed.

And grow like a weed they did. Soon the province was plastered with them. And some developed into edifices worthy of an old DeMille movie set. And the duplication of courses became a tangle that still perplexes the fine minds designated to try and straighten it out. The waste and unnecessary spending must run key to the bank.

to a tremendous amount. Bill Davis in many ways Is a fine leader. He has vision. drive, sympathy and the courage of his principles. Horsepower replaces horses · But we all might be better in this ski-joring scene in a off if we could take away his Georgetown shopping centre

SIR: From information better to apply the funds to published this week, conthe swimming pool and cerning the so-called provide at least a threemetre diving board.

READER'S FORUM

Gentlemen, During the recent controversy concerning the Halton Hills fire chief there have been certain statements made by some members of council to the press, which we as firefighters find most distrubing. We feel that our views on these matters must be brought to your attention, and we trust given due

First on the subject of

We are quite distrubed with the way our chief has been maligned. He applied for the job in good faith, it is a pity this faith was violated.

ment has long enjoyed a reputation as an efficient, well-trained and effective group of men, always willing to perform whatever action is required in firefighting as well as all other functions of the department. Mr. Holmes has headed this fire department for the last 1312 years; we feel our record alone must say something about the qualifications of the man as a very capable

The Acton Fire Depart-consideration.

Chief Holmes:

Fighters From Acton

Secondly:

and competent leader. We feel it is unnecessary to carry on with this subject as anyone who cares to take the time can find the statistical proof of our record in public firefighters have always enjoyed the faith, trust and co-operation of the citizens of Acton and district. It would be impossible to serve properly the community without this confidence. I now appears, from reported statements in the local press.

that there are members of council who have absolutely no faith in volunteer firefighters; indeed one member was quoted as saying the "lives and property of the community would be endangered with a volunteer as chief of Halton

You can understand it would be impossible for us as a fire department consisting completely of volunteers to continue without the confidence of all members of council. Certainly if the "Town Fathers" do not have

I would entreat those responsible, however, for administering this project to reconsider the cultural advantages of a proper theatre, the benefits to many in the community. It would be a comfortable, suitable place to see not only 'Little Theatre' but to enjoy movies, concerts and various times, particularly as the area population continues to grow, suitable tracts of land become scarcer and more expensive and building costs ncrease. I say, once again.

portunity to provide a theatre building when the last addition was made to the high school (coincidentally, also at a time when a regional authority was taking over). Decisions were made otherwise and, as a result. the present cafetorium was built. This is a type of half sniffing hers, then shoulders her aside and gets into her grub, while she bats him ineffectually, then retreats in

She is a bed sneaker-under, dusgust-to sulk under a bed.

since he arrived. And if there's anything more difficult than getting a determined old cat out from under

The only way to do it is go under the bed after her, with a broom or mop. You wind up, puffing, stuck under the bed, while she has darted off and is under one of the beds in one of the other rooms.

She's as slippery as an eel and a heck of a lot more

Meanwhile, during the half our you chase the old cat, trying to grab any of her extremities so that you can throw her out, where she should have been long ago, his arrogant young nibs is having the run of the kitchen.

under. He's a counter-walker. And a cupboard-door-opener. One leap and he's up on the kitchen counters, strolling, sniffing, licking. Don't leave the butter out. He'll down a

Give hlm three minutes

alone and he's somehow opened the cupboard door below the sink and is gaily

He'll eat anything: baked

The only time I have seen him a bit nonplused was on

New Year's Day. Maybe he had a hangover. I was half-drowsing in a chair, and watching him out of a corner of my eye, in case he took a flying leap and threw his arms around my neck to kiss

He'd caught a mouse, it seemed, though we've never had mice in this house, He pick it up in his teeth, chew it and swallow it. A tiny

Thank goodness he's good for something. Then he'd throw up the mouse, and go through the whole business again. I got a bit alarmed that he'd throw up more than the mouse one of these times.

parking lot The sport can be would slam his paw on it, me, which I abhor.

BUSINESS

onto the rug.

potato skins, left-over soup.

stale lettuce, fried eggs.

quarter-pound, straight.

into the garbage.

He's not a bed sneakera bed, I'd like to see it.

UNDER BED

cunning.

by the Georgetown council, but one which can accommodate significantly more people. There are several other halls of varying size in Georgetown and vicinity which can also provide this kind of facility. Regarding the merits of the cafetorium as a theatre. it would be charitable to say only that it leaves something to be desired, visually, ac-coustically, functionally. If a permanent theatre is not to be built, it would be

Higher Cost Of Food If Pesticides Banned

Food costs four to five times higher than those of today could result if modern pest control products were not employed to protect crop yields, deputy environment minister Everett Biggs says. In an address to a symposium on pesticides, held in Toronto, Mr. Biggs cited estimates by Nobel prize winner. Dr. Norman Borlaug, and others that crop yields would drop to less than 50 per cent of present rates without pesticides. "This would result in a jump in food costs of four to five times those of today. And what would the consumer get for five times the present food bills? All estimates indicate that the quality of the products available would be less than today's shopper is accustomed to," Mr. Biggs Commenting on possible results of a complete moratorium on pesticide use. Mr. Biggs quoted Dr. Borlaug's statement that "if we leave things to Mother Nature's whims, we will harvest only one-third to onehalf of the yield per unit of cultivated area that can be harvested using modern balanced technological practices."

The deputy environment minister also pointed out that although these products provide great benefits for man's food production they can be a liability if misused. "Mishandling has had serious consequences such as the killing of benevolent plants or insects outside the intended target," he em-

"Figures supplied by the Ontario Ministry Agriculture and Food reveal that in 1972, $150,000 worth of insured crops were destroyed by misuse of these crop-protecting products,' he said. Estimates indicate that this loss was reduced to less than $50,000 in 1973.

phasized.

Mr. Biggs went on to comment on the penchant of some to overlook the benefits of pesticides use, seeing only dangers from their abuse. "When there is a car ac cident, people always investigate to see where the driver made his mistake. In the case of an accident involving pest control products, the immediate reaction is that these products are at fault and are too dangerous to use.

"If we use these substances, if we agree that they must be used, then they must be used wisely," he concluded.

Disturbed By Statements confidence in us how can we expect the citizens to rest

> If these facts are correct, regrettably we must ask you to appoint a member or members of council to meet with us, so that we may immediately commence to phase out the volunteer service of the Acton Fig. Department. We trust th we will be replaced with more qualified professional men. If, however, these fac. have somehow misconstrued and all members of council do have confidence in the volunteer service, we would request that the public be made aware of these feelings. We request that a vote of confidence by all members of council be given as much publicity as the adverse comments have been given. We trust that this matter will be dealt with at your earliest possible con-may be resolved. Signed by all members of Acton Firefighters Assoc.

As I pointed out in an earlier letter to the former Council, there is no such theatre in Halton County north of Highway 5. With regional government now a fact, it may be a long time before we can get the ear of a governing body tuned to our

I repeat my pleas, ladies and gentlemen (I hope there are many others who will speak up - NOT ANOTHER

Ralph Ursel

Georgetown

I wonder if anyone asked how many fires we have per year and if we do indeed need

I feel an explanation should be given to the taxpayers for this extraordinary

Basil Kutter

Georgetown

Upward Trend

this many chiefs.

expenditure.

particular needs.

HALL

venience, that the situation

Theatre Building Needed, Writer Calls For Action recreation complex, it is apparent that once again a decision has been made which will be regretted many

We had a similar op-

similar to that contemplated

Please! theatrical productions or simply to hold all kinds of Too Many Fire Chiefs

Sir: I am writing in reference to an article in The Herald last week stating that Halton Hills council had decided to have three fire chiefs, two district and one over-all

For a community that has held back industrial and housing growth, it puzzles me how a responsible council, or at least one that should be, could spend $23,000 on two fire chiefs, and then say it will spend more to pay another.

Does council know the meaning of overhead expenses? But I guess since it is using tax monles it is not Pay Contracts Wage rates in Canada may rise 10 to 11 percent in 1974 at least for union workers whose contracts will be negotiated during the year, says Roger Worth in The Financial Post.

This is a jump over recent advances and, if achieved, could provide extra momentum in salary increases generally. With a mighty push from inflation and an assist from high corporate earnings, labor leaders predict the upward trend in settlements will continue next year.

Manufacturers, on the other hand, say fallout from the energy crists and severe material shortages in some industries will make bargaining difficult.

Although the 1974 negotiating calendar is lighter than it was in 1973, unions are getting tougher at the bargaining table in an attempt to achieve real income gains. An indication of this: average annual percentage wage increases in collective agreements covering more than 500 employees rose to 9.8 percent in the third quarter of 1973, up from the average 7.6 percent figure in 1972. (The figures are based on the total contract period

In Montreal, 16,000 municipal workers are shooting for wage increases of as much as 20 percent per year, a union spokesman

In Toronto, another 15,000 municipal workers are seeking more than a 12 percent annual increase;

MAKING USE OF THE SNOW

fun provided speeds are not too high, and the skier stays clear of obstacles. This skier also is wearing a safety helmet. Use plenty of rope, niid stay off streets and highways, and never tow loboggans.

(Herald Photo) .