Q. I have heard that I can deduct the fees my tax consultant charges for making out my income tax return. Is this correct?
A. There is no provision in the Income Tax Act which permits deduction of these charges. However, if you normally require accounting advice in connection with your business, the tax consultant charges may be deductible as a business expense.
Q. I am a commission salesman operating out of my house. I have a room set up as an office. Can I claim any expenses for this "office" when figuring my income tax?

A. If the room is used solely for the purpose of earning your income, you may be entitled to deduct a portion of the cost of maintaining your house, as a business expense. Unfortunately, more information would be required before you could be advised on how to calculate the amount of your deduction. Your District Taxation Office would be glad to help you.

system requires that each person takes the responsibility for reporting his income from all sources. With available personnel and limited space, it would be impossible for the staff in the District Taxation Offices to prepare returns.

A. Yes. If you have been in full-time attendance at a university or other post-secondary education institution in Canada, and you move to take a job, including summer employment, you may claim moving expense deductions. This applies only to moving expenses to get to the employment and not to those for your return to the university.

Q. Regarding the tax of capital gains, what if property was acquired before January 1, 1972, at a cost of $2,000 and was worth only $1,000 on Valuation Day, if later this property was sold for $2,500, will the capital gain in this case be $500 or $1,500?
A. In this example the capital gain would be $500, the actual gain over the period of ownership, one half of which would be taxable.
