SOCCER NOTES

No World Cup TV for Georgetown's Minor Soccer players. All members of the GDMSA executive are reminded that their regular monthly meeting will take place at Cedarvale Community Centre on Thursday March 7 at 8 p.m.

One topic for discussion will be "How best to protest the lack of live TV coverage for the forthcoming World Cup Soccer tournament in West Germany this summer." This sporting event takes place every four years on a world-wide basis no other sports competition can come close to it for the size of its TV audience, not even the Olympics. Canada's young soccer players couldn't help but benefit from watching the 16 qualifying nations battle for the Jules Rimet Trophy which goes to the winner. FIFA, the world's governing body for soccer which supposedly should be interested in popularizing the game of soccer in North America must share some of the blame for the present situation. They sold the TV rights for the American hemisphere to a company called Spanish International. This company wants $1.2 million for the Canadian TV rights but the CBC has only offered $75,000 which is what Spanish International asked from Columbia, a Latin American country with a population approximately equal to Canada's. It is a nation where soccer is king.

The closed-circuit TV companies have stepped in with lots of cash and bought the rights in Canada's large cities ($500,000 for Toronto). This means the games are available only in those cities and only to those willing to pay the high admission fees. So much for most of Georgetown's minor soccer players seeing the elite of the game in action. The executive have many other topics on their agenda for the meeting. Minor Soccer registration is heavy once again. On the second of the GDMA's three registration days, last year's registration figures were again exceeded. Huddy Smedema reports that boy's registration is up by 34 per cent at this time, including 114 new boys.

Girls registration has reached the same number as last year's registration for the season. With one Saturday of registration to go we expect a 50 per cent increase, up to this point 44 new girls have registered. Membership of parents and coaches total 77. All we can say is "great support."

Saturday will be the final day for registration. Coaches make sure your players have registered by Saturday. Coaches, managers and referees, Sunday March 31 and Saturday April 6 from 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. we will conduct a "rules of the game" clinic. Make sure you are in possession of a referees book at that time and attend these meetings. More of this will follow in the next issue of The Herald.

days in the various divisions will be as follows: Squirt - Monday; Atom - Tuesday; Mosquito - Wednesday; Peewee - Thursday; Bantam - Monday; Junior B - Sunday. The schedules will be drawn up on March 17 (two days after the deadline for entries). Entries in the new Junior B loop are expected from Oakville, Burlington, Brampton, Malton, Mississauga (2), Clarkson, and Georgetown. The H-P executive also decided on the formation of a disciplinary committee to be made of five referees.

SOCCER REGISTRATIONS

This Saturday will be the last day for minor soccer registration at Cedarvale. League officials predict registration may be up as much as 50 per cent over last years figure. Above, eager soccer players line up to

GIRLS SIGN UP

Soccer is not just a sport for boys as witnessed by the large number of girls signing up for minor soccer action.

Donna Spittal, just two of the 44 girls who have registered to date. (Herald Photo)
