Students Journey To Paris, France

For 13 students and five teachers at Acton High School the winter break from March 18 to March 22 has a special appeal.

The group will join students and teachers from a Woodstock High School on a trip to Paris, France. According to Carl Cayer, a French teacher who heads the delegation with his wife Mary-Louise, the trip was planned because he "always wanted to take a group of students to France" and also, no other school trip was planned this year.

In preparation for the trip, students and teachers from Acton were invited to the Cayer's home in Guelph to view slides of Paris. "This is to help everyone appreciate what they see in Paris, and to give them an idea of what to watch for," Mr. Cayer said.

The six boys and seven girls from Acton are from Grades 9 through 13 and were picked from students studying a French language course in school. "We shouldn't have any trouble keeping track of them with a two to one student-teacher ratio," Mr. Cayer explained. "We won't oppress the students, but we have a standard set of rules for trips."

THE main rule which impressed the parents, who were contacted by Mr. Cayer, involved the use of drugs or alcohol and a ban on going out alone. "If a student does any of these he or she will be sent right home," added Mr. Cayer. "However the students will be allowed some alcohol with their meals."

Another rule was the students' wardrobe for the trip. Mr. Cayer said the students were asked not to wear blue jeans on the plane or to any functions where they represented the school. They could wear jeans on a tour. "We stress comfort and neatness," he said.

The Halton Board of Education's approval was not necessary for the trip explained Mr. Cayer because it was not on school time, but each person had to take out a private insurance policy.

Also, the group needed its own passports and vaccinations before leaving the country.

The group leaves Toronto at 6 p.m. on March 16 and returns to Malton Airport at 6:20 p.m. on Sunday, March 24. In France, the party will stay at the residence Dr Centre D'Accueil, a residence run by the French government for foreign visitors.

The program for the trip includes visits to major landmarks in Paris, such as the Louvre, Eiffel Tower, L'Arc de Triomphe, and a jaunt to Versailles. Mr. Cayer added he wanted the group to get out of the city for one day and view the countryside.

Another part of the program is a visit to a French high school. "I hope the students can learn they can get by with a limited amount of French, so I don't expect a lot of trouble," Mr. Cayer explained. "The trip is a confidence builder for some of the students."

Those participating in the trip are: Ford Alton, Diane Buckman, Lynn Carr, Eddie Couture, Donna Gorjup, Suzanne Kamel, David Mills, Susan Mills, Rick Neat, Barbara Reed, Dick Roher, Rhona Silcock, Shawn Van-Merkestein, and teachers; Miss Shirley Menifée, Miss Anne Pool, Miss Jane Misener, Mr. James May, Mrs. Mary-Louise Cayer and Carl Cayer.

ACTON LOCAL NEWS

THE HERALD, Wednesday, March 13, 1974 Page 2A

Four Injured In Collision

Four people suffered minor injuries in a two-car collision on Highway 7 two miles east of Churhill Road near Georgetown at 4:30 on Sunday. Dennis Markel, 17 of Raylawn Crescent in Georgetown, his father, 40 year old John Markel of 94 Main Street in Acton, Michael Ratcliffe, 24 of Northmount Avenue in Port Credit, and Janice Ratcliffe, 21, all received minor abrasions. They were treated at Georgetown and District Hospital and released.

Police report that Michael Ratcliffe was driving a 1969 Dodge eastbound on Concession Line 5. He halted at a stop sign and proceeded to enter the intersection, hitting the left front fender of a 1971 Malabar driven by Dennis Markel.

Milton OPP report that Ratcliffe was charged with failing to yield the right of way at a stop sign.

Liquor Crackdown

Acton OPP report that a crackdown on "careless driving" and "supplying liquor to minors" will continue.

During the week of March 3-9, liquor infractions were on the increase. The following liquor charges were laid: two charges of supplying liquor to minors, two charges of having liquor other than in a residence, and two charges of minors consuming liquor.

Other incidences in the 34 general occurrences investigated by the Acton OPP ranged from domestic complaints to minor thefts.

There were three minor accidents which resulted in one person, a pedestrian injured. Total damage in the accidents was $285.

The OPP report that radar will be operating on all streets in Acton at staggered hours from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. throughout the coming summer months.

Plan Available In Three Years

Mario Venditti, Halton Hills town planner, believes it will take at least three years before Halton region has an official plan.

Mr. Venditti told general administration committee members that he was in the process of developing an official town plan for Halton Hills. He hoped to have it completed in two years.

Mr. Venditti introduced a report to the committee from a meeting he had with Ed Cummings, the Halton region planner, and planners from the other areas in the region including Milton, Burlington and Oakville.

"There will be two areas of planning by the region, long range and current," explained Mr. Venditti. He added that

Machine Looted By Vandals

Approximately $10 was taken from the coin change machine in the Easy Coin Wash Laundromat at 15 Mill Street West in Acton on Friday, Cpl. R. J. Arbour of the Acton OPP reported. Thieves used "slugs" the size of quarters to obtain the money.

On Feb. 7 thieves got $40 from the machine. Police are investigating.

LEEWAY 'You Have Priority'

Mayor Tom Hill practiced some strange politics when he guaranteed an Acton audience that the proposed Lions swimming pool has "priority" over other Halton projects.

"You have priority," he announced, repeating the phrase several times. To prove it, he held a banquet crowd last week about council action.

"Just last night we agreed to apply to the Ontario Municipal Board for $150,000," he said.

What he did not tell the crowd was information that he perhaps thought it did not want to hear, that the application was merely one of four, of which the Acton debenture for $150,000 amounts to a relatively small sum.

The other three sought-after debentures total in value $2,400,000 and will be used to finance if approved, the very three projects that Mr. Hill was saying gave way in priority to the work in Acton. These projects are the library expansion, another swimming pool, and an arena-theatre hall complex, all in Georgetown.

His statements were all the more vague in that they were supposedly in response to a complaint from the audience. "Why in hell should we pay for a complex way down on the other side of Halton Hills?" asked Roy Goodwin, former president of the Acton Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hill didn't answer that question. His statement that Acton's relatively small portion of the pie has priority is not technically correct.

It is true enough that a motion was made the evening before that would have given the Acton project its so called priority, but it was never passed.

Like many other motions of the municipal council it dissolved into shouted accusations of parochialism and acrimonious debate not so much concerned with issues as with personalities. As on other occasions the motion never came to a vote. It merely disappeared.

If the mayor did indeed think he was telling the audience what he thought it would like to hear, he was mistaken. The statement was instantly challenged by Bert Hinton, a former county warden.

"You're making it too easy for us by suggesting that we have priority," Mr. Hinton said. "We must mature to the situation that councillors can say in this arena or this project good for us or not."

Mr. Hinton seemed to be suggesting that the municipal council must develop to the stage that a councillor from Georgetown can say, "we don't need this project in Acton," or an Acton man can suggest too much money is being spent in Georgetown, without his opposite member instantly levelling a charge of parochialism.

Only one thing seems clear to a growing number of ratepayers. The municipality of Halton Hills, with a population of only 30,000 and an already climbing assessment rate, cannot afford $2.5 million worth of luxuries in its first year of existence.

The point has been brought forward to the council that the combined projects could jump tax rates here by 50 mills if they were all to be paid for in a single year. Now that will never happen. Instead, the projects will be debentured and paid off over many years.

That realization seemed to make it all quite acceptable to councillors who perhaps are not too concerned about tax rates for the next 20 or 30 years. They won't be holding office then in any case.

But the funny money of debentures is not free money. Interest rates will impose an even further burden on taxpayers here, one they don't need. It is possible too, that they neither need now want two swimming pools, a new arena and theatre complex, and an expanded library.

What they do need, and it is becoming a rarer and rarer commodity in Halton Hills, are the straight facts from their politicians.
