

Pupils By The Hundreds Are Sought For Reunion

How's your memory? If you attended Chapel Street school in Georgetown, then you can put your thinking powers to work. The school is closing at the end of this term, and a big reunion is planned for June 2. Many of the pupils and teachers who attended the school are known, but a great many are not.

The school is 105 years old, and thousands of people have passed through it. Efforts are being made to locate and notify as many of the school's alumni as possible, to advise them of the June 2 program. The list of names contained here is taken from 1930 class registers. If you recognize anyone on the list, and are still in contact with him, or know where he can be contacted, then make it a point to tell him of this last official event.

Chapel Street school started as a four-room school, with wings added to each side to bring classroom total to 11. Upwards of 450 children at a time attended the school, and retired teacher and principal Val Stein, 7 Queen St., Georgetown, can recall years when class sizes approached 45 pupils or more.

First year of record is 1930. Former pupils listed here attended school until 1933, at least, and most should still be living, somewhere. Names of many of the girls probably have changed through marriage.

Committee Head Stepping Down

Ken Campbell, Chairman of the Renaissance Steering Committee told students at Georgetown and District High School last week that he is stepping down from the position.

In a "bearpit" session, Mr. Campbell answered questions from the students. He explained that at the first large scale membership meeting scheduled for late May, a new executive would be elected.

"I've made no bones about the fact that my own input is a very brief interval time," he said. "I made it clear at my press conference that I'm not empire building."

Mr. Campbell mentioned one person as the possible successor, Ronald Damude, a retired high school principal whom Mr. Campbell met last month. Mr. Damude is one of the primary speakers at the recent citizens' forums held by the committee in Halton.

"There are several very capable people who are better than me and who can be a better chairman," he added. "Mr. Damude is one, he can make a great contribution as chairman."

One of the first issues the students questioned Mr. Campbell about pertained to his view of censoring books in school libraries. They asked what his criteria was for basing his opinion.

"Some literature as far as I'm concerned is offensive because of my convictions morally and esthetically," he replied. "Students should be shown the beautiful in literature, we don't need washroom walls in the books."

Mr. Campbell noted he did not want the books removed from the school libraries, but proposed they be rated similar to the system used for movies now.

"My view as a Christian is to fill our minds with beauty," he added. "If I fill your mind with garbage, you begin to smell like garbage."

The students felt that they would be able to cope with life better after viewing such literature, and seeing the other side of life.

"You don't have to be exposed to evil to know it's there," he explained. "You don't have to go to Yonge Street to see what's on that side of the world."

Mr. Campbell also talked about sex education in schools and a desire by the committee to have a $1.3 million task force on education scrapped by the board of education.

Some of the students accused Mr. Campbell of bigotry and they believed he was trying to "stuff" his thoughts down their throats.

"I think it's bigotry to scoff at my convictions," answered Mr. Campbell. "I'm not jamming my views down anybody's throats. I was asked to come here."

"I'm a generation older and with all the mistakes I've made I've gained maturity," he added. "I have an obligation to guide my children from what I've learned."

Varian Associates of Canada Limited, Georgetown, has been given a $29,000 contract for electron tubes, the Federal Department of Supply and Services announced Monday.

It was one of 245 unclassified contracts, each worth $10,000, or more, for a total value of $16,046,286 awarded to Canadian Firms during the week ending April 19.

Dorothy Wilson as she was known to most of us, was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wilson, but lived in Stewarttown with her grandparents, Mr. ND Mrs. John Wilson, where she attended Stewarttown Public School, and Georgetown High School. At the time of her death, Dorothy was visiting relatives in Brampton, while her daughter, son-in-law and granddaughter, with whom she lived, were visiting his parents in Newfoundland, where they were snow-bound at the time.

Her husband Edward Robinson, predeceased her in 1972. Surviving are her daughter Sharon (Mrs. W. Clancy) brothers Clifford, Kenneth, Ronald and George, and sisters Myrtle (Mrs. M. Hamilton) and Edith (Mrs. G. Dennis).

Sincere sympathy of the community is extended to W. R. McMurray in the recent death of Mrs. McMurray. Flowers in St. John's Church on Sunday, were in loving memory of Mrs. McMurray and also Mr. A. Rodgers, who passed away a year ago.

A most enjoyable evening, was spent at St. John's Church Thursday, when the church guild served a delicious dessert supper, sponsored by a program of old movies. A repeat performance would be appreciated by all who attended.

On behalf of the community we would like to express our thanks to the boys of the village who worked so diligently to repair the dam sufficiently that we again have the water-fall in Stewarttown.

Unfortunately, vandalism and later the heavy spring floods damaged it so badly that all the water was drained from the pond, leaving only the main stream to flow on its way.

HIGH SCHOOL INSIGHTS

Students Producing Quiz On Community Television

By Larry Busbey and Larry Broadfield

With only one full month left of school for this year many students have found that there is little time left to complete the many tasks they must, before the end of school.

One example of this is the yearbook committee, which is working hard to produce a book worthy of this year. Being the end of the year, some students have work to catch up on and many others have to finish their year's work in extra-curricular activities, such as in sports or drama. Although the weather is sunny, warm and excellent for being outside, many of these students will force themselves to stay indoors and fulfill their commitments. To these students, we offer congratulations and wish them the best of luck. We think you should, too.

Instant Success
Georgetown District High's academic contest High Quiz will be presenting its 3rd program tonight on Cable television. Since its beginning, two weeks ago, High Quiz has overcome the few problems that any new endeavor must face.

Tonight's contest is the third and final Grade 9 competition. Last week's winners were Blair Thompson, David Sumpton and Wendy Smith of House D who won over House C which consisted of Paul McAuley, Judy Mehm and Cathy Masson. House D will compete against House B (Vickie Harrington James Gillander and Gary Fisher) who won against Monica Drishur, Yvonne Carbutt and Jeannine d'Entremont of House A.

The Cancer Society in Acton has raised approximately $2,000 so far in its campaign this year. Anne Usher, campaign chairman, feels the campaign has been successful and is showing improvements over last year's figures. "We're just about finished, we should have all the money by the end of next week," she explained. "The returns keep coming in and it looks like a very good showing."

The students felt that they would be able to cope with life better after viewing such literature, and seeing the other side of life.

The first of the Grade 13 competitions will begin on Monday, May 6, with House A and House B testing each other's intellects in an amusing and grueling contest. Watch Cable TV each Monday for the Grade 13 contests and each Wednesday for the Grade 10-11 contests yet to be presented.

Georgetown Cable TV (itself is pleased that a program from the town's youth can be presented on its station. "We have received many compliments about the program and are proud to present it," said Richard Forster, manager-director of Georgetown Community Television. "It presents something new for us in the fact that it is produced entirely by the students."

If you're interested in entering the competition there is still time (especially for Grade 12). If you would like to join or if you have any announcements pertinent to the school, come to the high school insights office in the school.

Festival Entry
Theatre Arts students of Georgetown District H. S. will be attending the Halton Drama Festival at Sheridan College on May 3 and 4. The play which they will be entering in the festival is one which should be familiar to the Grade 13 students of GDHS, as it is on their English curriculum: The Summoning of Evermann.

Mrs. Mole, the school's Theatre Arts instructor, will be directing the play. Everyone wishes the players much luck in the festival.

Formal—

Earth Days—
Yesterday and today are Earth Days at GDHS as all students became involved in activities having something to do with man and his environment. Teachers from all departments mentioned at least something on topic although Math was a difficult subject to involve in the Earth Day spirit. Many teachers allowed students to work on their pet projects for the days involved and many unique and beneficial ideas on environmental im-

The film Limits to Growth was shown to all students, and the public also will see it tonight at 7:30. # BILLY GRAHAM says about the new motion picture "Time to Run"...

I feel that thousands of people will see a part of themselves in the film. Hopefully, families seeing it will be brought closer together in real understanding and communication.

I urge you to take your children... or your parents... to see TIME TO RUN when it comes to your community. You may find it more of a mirror than a motion picture!
