REV. ANDRE Simard, left, will be leaving Sacred Heart parish in Georgetown, where he has served for seven years, and will be succeeded by Rev. Laurent Levesque. The priests are members of the Redemptorist Fathers and both have many years in the service of the church. Father Levesque has been visiting the parish and will soon assume full duties here.

It's A Return To Classes For Priest Of Georgetown

September is the traditional month for back to school. Among this fall's new crop of students is a man who has been a resident of Georgetown for the past seven years.

Rev. Andre Simard of Sacred Heart parish will be leaving this charge for studies. He is entering Laval University in Montreal where he will work towards his master's degree in theology.

Father Simard will be succeeded in the parish by Rev. Laurent Levesque. Both men are members of the Redemptorist Fathers and both have many years in the service of the church. After seven years there, he was posted to Georgetown, at a time when the English-speaking Catholic population was forming its own parish of Holy Cross and the French-speaking population was taking over the Sacred Heart Church.

Under Father Simard, the French parish developed and a church hall was built at Sacred Heart, and is the scene of many community activities.

Father Levesque can look on periods of service as diverse as time in Northern Ontario and time in Vietnam. It was in Vietnam that the trials of far-flung religious work almost cost him his sight.

Poor of poor quality, a debilitating semi-tropical sun and heat and lack of vitamins took their toll. "I came very close to losing my sight and I had to return home," the priest recalls. He was in Vietnam, when much of the area still was known as Indo-China, at the end of the Second World War.

He returned to Canada and rested for one year. He became a retreat master, carrying on with that work until his appointment to the Georgetown parish.

In Northern Ontario, Father Levesque was associated with a church that was built during the early war years at the hamlet of Tunis. He served there three years preaching across a large portion of Northeastern Ontario. The church built by the Redemptorist fathers was sold three years ago when declining population made the parish uneconomical. The church building now is a hotel and motel beside Highway 11, 20 miles south of Cochrane.

SEMINARY
Both Father Simard and Father Levesque studied at the seminary at Ste. Anne de Beaupre. Father Levesque admits he was interested in a career in the priesthood as early as the age of seven; Father Simard says he was about 12 or so when he decided on the calling.

Father Simard, too, has

New Vehicle Inspections Introduced Into Ontario

Minister of Transportation and Communications John R. Rhodes announced details of the motor vehicle inspection program coming into effect the first of September.

Under the new program, a safety standards certificate can be issued only by licensed motor vehicle inspection stations and each inspection of a used vehicle must be carried out by a mechanic registered with the Ministry.

The safety standards certificate will replace the certificate of mechanical fitness now in use.

In Ontario, a motor vehicle must undergo an inspection of its safety related components prior to resale or transfer of ownership. It is estimated that approximately one-third of the vehicles in the province is inspected each year under this program.

CORRECT DEFECTS
In making the announcement, Mr. Rhodes said;

"The purpose of this program is not to take cars off the road, but to have mechanical defects corrected at the time of resale, resulting in safer vehicles on our provincial roadways."

There will be approximately 5500 licensed stations throughout the province mainly at service stations and car dealerships. Each station will be inspected prior to the issuing of a licence to ensure sufficient space, tools and equipment are available to properly complete the safety standards inspection.

Mr. Rhodes indicated: "The new program is designed to provide a uniformly high standard of inspection throughout the province and to insure the public that both the mechanic and the station producing the certificate meet the standards established by the Ontario Government."

Bicycle sales have tripled during the last decade. Deaths and accidents on bikes have doubled.

Biking is a pollution-free way to travel. It can also be fun, healthy and cheap. But our auto-addicted society has built very few bikeways so far. Cyclists have to straddle car traffic.

Bike riders are supposed to observe most of the regulations and signals meant for cars. But too many don't. A recent study of accidents involving bicycles and cars showed that bikers had violated the traffic laws in almost 70 percent of the cases. The most common violation was not obeying stop signs. In another report it was apparent that bikers made far more errors than drivers did. Most accidents happened because bikers didn't yield the right of way, used the wrong arm signals or none at all when they turned, rode on the wrong side, and ignored stoplights. And last year a study of 600 bicycle accidents, which was conducted by a Safety Commission, showed that two-thirds of the accidents resulted from riding double on bikes designed for one, performing stunts, losing control of braking, and hitting bumps and ruts. Safer cycling is possible. Observing regulations helps a lot. Seeing and being seen — by cars, pedestrians, other bikers — is absolutely essential. Bright bike banners on tall flagpoles are coming into style. And so is reflective tape that is fluorescent day and night. Keeping bikes in good condition is important too; 20 percent of accidents are caused by mechanical and structural failures.

Better biking is one way to cut car exhaust and fight air pollution. Contact your Halton Christmas Seal Association about other ways to help curb pollution. It's a matter of life and death.
