

Local library

On January 16 the Halton County Board of Education will consider the proposed Limehouse Community Branch Library. This cooperative effort between the board and the Halton Hills Library Board will provide a branch library service based in the Limehouse Public School Resource Centre. The branch will be open to the public two evenings per week and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

When it is open to the public the branch will be staffed and operated by the Halton Hills Library Board which will also provide the adult collection as well as some additional children's materials. All the normal services of the Georgetown and Acton Libraries will be available to the Limehouse community, including Interlibrary loan, films, records, cassette tapes and reference assistance.

The Limehouse Community Branch will be very similar to the service already successfully operating in Killbride and, together with the White Oaks Library in Oakville, reinforces the Halton board's leadership in the development of parallel uses of school facilities.

The library board is equally interested in the experiment as it has been concerned for some time with the problem of supplying local service in rural areas without resorting to the expense of a bookmobile. If Limehouse is successful the board will be most interested in setting up similar operations elsewhere in Halton Hills.

If the board of education accepts the proposal as presented on the 16th the formal agreement will be signed and the branch will open to the public on Saturday the 25th. The staffs of both the Limehouse school and the Halton Hills libraries are now engaged in planning for the opening.

New faces at DQ

Beginning January 20, new faces will be seen behind the counter at the Dairy Queen Store, located at the corners of Guelph Street and Rexway Drive.

Marilyn and George Mann well known residents of Georgetown, have sold their business, as of December 15, to Albert and Helen Lloyd of Burlington.

Mr. Lloyd served with the Dairy Queen organization as district manager prior to his taking over the Georgetown operation.

The Manns have served the Georgetown area for the past four years.

First step to town Historical Society

Digging up this town's history? Well, it's not all a matter of dusting and talking by any means. Sometimes it's a matter of digging in the mud, or painting, or sometimes it's spinning yarns, writing letters, sorting old newspapers, or talking the ear off your councillor.

No matter what your talent, there's a place for it in the drive to collect, preserve and record the history of the Georgetown area.

To help put it all together, on January 20 at 8 p.m. people interested in forming a Georgetown Historical Society are invited to attend a meeting in the Georgetown Library, Church Street.

A member of the Oakville Historical Association will be present to act as a resource person, answering questions and providing the benefit of Oakville's past experience.

Among the matters to be dealt with at the meeting will be the formation of an executive committee, possible programming ideas, and resources available through such bodies at the provincial government, the Ontario Historical Society, and the federal government.
