

JUST SOME of the many, many Georgetown women who made last year's Bantam tournament such a success. Their manpower (personpower?) year after year has been one of the chief reasons behind the Georgetown tournament's rise in recognition as one of the province's major hockey tournaments.

Feed 'em hot dogs, hamburgers and sandwiches, and 100 pounds of potatoes a day.

That's what Mrs. Jessie Hayes, the Legion's cook, with the help of the Kinettes and various other local women's institutes, church groups and service organizations will be doing all next week, at the Legion Hall in Georgetown.

The boys will arrive for meals in teams, two-at-a-time, accompanied by coaches and managers. Free meals will be served to the players following their games, in order to stagger the mealtimes. A cold lunch will be served from 11 'til two. Just enough to tide them over 'til suppertime when they will get a hot meal from 3.30 on 'til the whole hungry mob is sufficed.

Parents and visitors will also be served at a nominal charge.

"I buy all the food, about $2,000 worth," said

Mrs. Hayes who has been looking after the culinary operation for 14 of the 15 years of the tournament.

The $35 per team registration covers the costs. I get several teenage girls to help me. Until two years ago I looked after it all myself, but as the tournament has been growing we have solicited the help of the groups."

Each organization supplies a working crew for a day. Mrs. Hayes who does all the cooking for the Legion and used to cook for the McGibbon Hotel Restaurant, says she loves to cook for a lot of people at a time. "Cooking is a lot of work, and if you go to all that trouble you might as well make worth your while. We will peel and cook 100 pounds of potatoes a day, and serve about 250 hot dogs at lunchtime. And I wouldn't even try to estimate how many quarts of milk we'll go through. I'll tell you better after next week," she quipped.

Mrs. Hayes and a Kinette will be on kitchen duty all day. Volunteer groups will take turns helping in the kitchen.

The boys will get breakfast in the individual homes. "But being boys they will probably eat all day long since the refreshment booth at the arena will be open," she said.

The joy of victory...

The agony of defeat...

The pressure of play....

Oh yes, the long arm of the law
