

Ollivier

Today Georgetown, tomorrow the world! Our congratulations to Bob Ollivier, our Outdoors Writer who has a feature article in this month's issue of Ontario Fishermen and Hunter.

Bob reports that he was so tied up fishing this past weekend he didn't even get a chance to see the article in the widely distributed magazine. It's his first full feature to be published in a magazine but knowing Bob's fantastic knowledge of the outdoors plus his ability to convey his enthusiasm for all outdoors activities—it will certainly not be his last.

Looking for his relations

To the Editor of the Herald:

My grandmother's brother, William Lawler, was born at Kildare, Joliette County, Lower Canada, November 22, 1845. He married Jane Hewston there on June 7, 1872 and later moved to Georgetown. They had two sons, John and William Lawler.

I seek information about John and William Lawler and their descendants. Could you publish this inquiry in the Herald?

Family Unit Month

Upon a request by Councillor Ern Sykes the month of May has been officially set aside as "Family Unit Month" in Halton Hills.

Councillor Sykes explained to council last week that he was making the request on behalf of the congregation of one of the local churches.

"We should endeavour," said Councillor Sykes "to do something to improve the quality of the life-style in this community."

10% raise

All salaried employees in Halton Hills will receive a 10 percent increase in wages this year, retroactive to January 1, 1975.

Council decided on the package increase last Tuesday night following adjournment of the regular council meeting.

After a lengthy discussion council re-adjourned to approve the 10 percent increase.

An attempt to get a 12.5 percent increase approved by council met with stiff opposition and was defeated.

Honor mothers

On Sunday, May 11 Latter-Day Saints joined with the rest of Ontario to honor mothers. Members of the church from Brampton, Bramalea, Mississauga, Georgetown and surrounding areas met in the Etobicoke chapel which is being used until the new Brampton chapel is completed.

Special services were held Sunday morning in honor of mothers, with roses presented to all mothers in the congregation. The Junior Sunday school children (ages 3-7) presented part of the program with songs and verses.
