

A champion follows in her parents' paw prints

She's two years old, pure white, stands about three feet high and is a champion. Her name is Tina, a thoroughbred Samoyed, who comes from a family of champions.

Mrs. John Hancock of Glen Williams is the proud owner of the beautiful dog who just recently took first prize in the Class A Novice division at the Applewood Shopping Centre Plaza Obedience School.

Mrs. Hancock enrolled Tina and herself in the school at the shopping plaza and after a very successful training session, decided to enter her in the competition.

There were two categories for classification: Class A Novice, for those who have had no previous training, and Class

B Novice for those who have had extensive training.

Tina was awarded first prize for her outstanding obedience and also first prize in overall points from both A and B Classes.

Mrs. Hancock explained that this was the first time that a dog from Class A has won the overall championship. Remembering that Tina was competing against professional show dogs this was quite an accomplishment.

Mrs. Hancock has owned Tina for six months now. She purchased the dog from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gruber of Cheltenham.

Helen Gruber entered her dog, Cheko, which won first prize in the Novice B Class of the same competition. Mr. and Mrs. Rahn also of RRI Cheltenham was second prize with their dog, Sessie.

Tina's trainer was Mrs. Lorraine Taylor of Mississauga.

Tina, whose registered name is Shebaska's Bemipria Kipperic of the United States of America, does indeed follow in the footsteps of her parents.

The sire, Dagger, was once awarded the English Canadian and USA Champion Silver Dagger of Sword Dale. He was also the group placer of England, Canada and the United States.

The dam, Kandl, also has a stream of championships. She was once awarded the American and Canadian "Best of Show" Award. She won the rotating specialty show multiple group winner and the group placer SCA. Kandl has been labelled as the top winning bitch from 1972 through to 1975.

As beautiful as her parents, Tina has the qualities of a champion and, in fact, Mrs. Hancock has hopes of achieving such high recognition for Tina as her parents, Dagger, and Kandl, have.

SHE IS BEAUTIFUL. Mrs. Eileen Hancock of Glen Williams with her prize samoyed Tina. Tina comes from a family of champions and received her first prize last Monday evening.

Georgetown's newest sport

It's like basketball, but it's played in the water. The staff of the Georgetown Indoor Pool and a few interested people participated last Wednesday in a Water Polo Clinic held in the pool.

Water polo players from various teams in Welland came to the pool with their head coach, Eian Gill, to show the interested people the skill and tactics of the game.

Chris Hall, pool supervisor, explained that they are trying to get men's and ladies' water polo teams formed. She stated that they are not setting any age limits until the number of interested people is known.

When, and if, teams are formed, Jack Nieuwhof, well acquainted with the sport, will be the coach. Chris also stated that if enough people sign up practices will begin sometime in the summer.

Those who attended Wednesday had instructions both in and out of the water and later participated in a game of water polo.

Any interested people who wish to become involved in a water polo team are asked to contact the Georgetown Indoor Pool.
