Decrease in fire calls
So far this year, there has been a 17 percent decrease in fire incidents in the Georgetown area, a report submitted by Fire Chief Ken Bulkema, reveals. There have been 19 fewer fire incidents. However, there has been a marked increase in such fires as grass fires, which rose by 33 percent. To date there have been a total of 28 such fires, compared to 12 fires last year to date.
Fire Chief Ken Bulkema pointed out that the percentage of building fires which result in large losses has gone up by 9 percent however, so far this year, the losses have been lower than last year.
The report which was submitted at the general administration committee meeting, covered the second quarter of 1975.

Ask for stop signs
A representative of Elkton Investments, owners of Marywood Meadows appeared before the five-man works committee to discuss the possibility of having stop signs installed at the major intersections within the development.
"We can't put up temporary signs because, they are not legal," explained Joe Hurst, chairman of the committee. All in all, five signs will be needed, according to the developers and Robert Austin, newly appointed engineer for the town of Halton Hills, is now working on incorporating them into the bylaw.
