

PACING THE GROUP was important to keep track of the laps done by the participants that raised over $10,000 for the Rotary Club's projects.

Skate-a-thon

$10,000 for arena

The money is still not all there. Skaters began at 7:30 doing their 60 laps each in the first classes of skaters in the Georgetown Figure Skating Club comprising 50 members in the combined senior, junior and intermediate level were the first on the ice. Celebrities from local council; Roy Booth, Mike Armstrong, along with Julian Reed newly elected MLA; Frank Allan, Doug Collison. Mayor Tom Hill was scheduled to skate but fell as he entered the ice surface at Gordon Alcott Memorial Arena eliminating him from the program. All celebrities with the exception of Roy Booth and Mayor Hill completed their 60 laps. Roy Booth completed 21 laps before tiring.

Groups such as the Georgetown Figure Skating Club will receive 25 percent of their contribution back to aid their club. Estimates place the figure skating club as being in $3,000. Expenses for prizes and promotion will be deducted from the amount received and the remaining 75 percent turned over to the arena to fully outfit the centre.

Vouchers from McDonalds and A&W were given to each of the participants in the day long event that raised the money for the club and the arena.

Police blotter

Snowmobile theft

Police are currently investigating a breakin that occurred last week in which thieves netted two snowmobiles, three chain saws and four snowmobile jackets.

All items were new and stolen from an area dealer during the Wednesday night or early Thursday morning.

Five glass vials containing traces of hashish oil were recovered from a Georgetown residence following the issue of a search warrant. The containers were discovered in a truck and in kitchen cupboards.

A Norval resident was assaulted as he walked southward on the 8th line last Wednesday. The occupants of the car police are seeking got out asking for money. Then they proceeded to assault the man. Police have descriptions of both the car and the suspects.

Staff members at Georgetown Chrysler report; 1 starter motor, 1 PCV valve, 1 breather cap and 1 length of hose stolen from a new car on their lot sometime during September.

Thieves entering the home of an RR 3 resident through a kitchen window apparently removed eight old $100 bills with a total value of $800. The incident occurred over the weekend.

Former members of Georgetown Car club gained entry to a club house over the weekend removing one television set and damaging beer and pop bottles along with several light bulbs. Value has been placed at $49 for the set and the damages done by the intruders.

Goods valued at $1.13 were recovered as a shoplifter tried to remove them from a store at the Georgetown Market Centre this past weekend. An area woman was charged with shoplifting.

Following an arrest for impaired driving an impounded and searched vehicle revealed marijuana under the seat of the RR 1 Georgetown residents car. Charges have been laid under the Narcotics Act.

Six cases of wilful damage in the rural areas involving mailboxes and gate marker lights were reported to area police.

Theft from the town yard on Maple Avenue of a farm wagon with no sides and no fenders is currently under investigation by police.

Seven bicycles were reported stolen from area homes and schools over the past week. Lawn ornaments were also popular with local thieves as three were stolen from various sections of town.

'MOVE OVER MRS MARKHAM' is the first play of the current Georgetown Little Theatre season. Derek Joyes, Neville Worsnop and Vera MacDonald are featured in the leading roles of the British comedy.

Corn picking

The Royal Botanical Gardens club are planning a corn picking event for the Thanksgiving weekend at the Soil Conservation Exhibit. A tour of the various sections of the exhibit will be followed by a 'bee' to pick and husk field corn. The corn is used over the winter to feed water-fowl in Cootes Paradise.

The corn picking bee will be held Sunday, October 12th at 2:00 p.m. and interested people are asked to meet at the silo in the arboretum.

GLT getting ready

Members of the Georgetown Little Theatre plan to start this season off with a real bang as the group makes plans for the best year in the 17 year history of the local group.

The new season will be kicked off with a hospital benefit performance with net proceeds going to the hospital building fund. Organizers of the gala event hope to raise $1,000 for the worthy cause as ticket sales increase each day.

The first play is an outrageously funny British comedy 'Move Over Mrs. Markham' by Ray Cooney and John Chapman and is guaranteed to make your sides split with laughter the play unfolds before your eyes.

The group is in the final stages of rehearsal for the special performance to be held in mid-October.

The wine and cheese party will climax the premiere performance and will be held at St. George's Anglican Hall. The cheese for the party and its 250 expected guests has been donated by Roy Booth of the Boars Head at Moore Park Plaza as part of his concern for the group and the hospital.

Tickets for the wine and cheese party and the regular performances are available from Little Theatre members or by calling president, Bob Lee at 877-5407 anytime.

The Christmas production entitled 'The Wizard of Oz' is still in the planning stages and director Ron Hunt re-writes the script and the music for the children's production. Little theatre representatives believe this year's Christmas performance to be the most ambitious thus far in Little Theatre history with the play requiring more cast and special effects than any previous play.

Further performances scheduled for the season include Billy Liar and Arms and the Man, the play that formed the basis of the movie 'The Chocolate Soldier.'

Performances for the current production have been scheduled for October 23, 24 and 25 at Howard Wrigglesworth Auditorium. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Police meeting

The Halton Board of Police Commission will be holding a public meeting on Thursday, October 9 at the Acton Library. The meeting will begin at 2:30 pm.

Commissioners who will be present at the public meeting will be; Judge William Warrander; Mayor George Harrington of Burlington; Mayor B.H. Barrett of Oakville; William Hourigan; Halton Region Police Chief Ken Skerett and Glen Magnuson from Georgetown. The Acton Library is located on Main Street between School Lane and River Street.

Correction

In last week's edition of the Herald we seemed to get some of our numbers jumbled around in our poll to poll count. For poll no. 41, St. Pauls in Norval we read; Dawkins 33, Johnson 28 and Reed 18. However, the correct figures are; Dawkins 28, Johnson 18 and Reed 33.

No TV for two hours

Subscribers of Halton Cable Systems living west of Mountainview Road were without television reception for almost two hours while cable crews repaired the main trunk line which feeds Georgetown and Glen Williams after a passing truck ripped down the cable at the intersection of Mountainview and Delree.

The first call reporting the accident came in at 5:15 p.m. bringing workmen back from their homes to repair the line. Traffic was rerouted around the intersection as the cable was pulled across to the poles on each side of the street.

Service was restored around seven p.m. with technicians on hand to check the reception after the accident.
