This premier event for high school distance runners attracted between 1,800-2,000 athletes representing over 400 scools throughout the province. The terrain was rugged, over 50 percent of the course was run up and down hills, and to further test the weak, over 300 runners competed in each race.

Respect your outdears

by Bob Olllyler Member, Outdoors Writer's of Canada

What to do? October was out, November in. Hunt grouse, or maybe pheasant. How about small game? Plenty of opportunity there. And then there is Salmon fishing, or Rainbow trout.

Those are some of the activities that are available In October and November, along with ducks and geese. The problem is, when all these goodles are set before you on the same weekend, what do you choose?? I could not decide so I went Bass fishing instead. Dave Hobbs, who hails from down Norval way, picked me up on a fine morning, I closed the car door, started down the street and down came the rain.

As we fished Bass in the pouring rain, the occasional ducks would fly over head well within range. Like they say, you can't win them all.

Outdoor education is everyone's responsibility. It is a lob far too important to trust to any one part of our education system.

Schools cannot teach it efficiently. Conservation groups sometimes get too one-sided in the matter. Youth groups cannot handle it all alone. The so-called sportsmen's groups, though open-minded on these matters, are often busy enjoying the outdoors and not putting time in to education. There are exceptions to all these of course, with individual groups, but on the whole it must be a joint effort.

The recent workshop with the Farm Writers of Canada and the Outdoor Writers of Canada, was a great success and points up the need for these various groups to get together to discuss the many aspects of outdoor education. Only in this way can we understand each other's feeling and ideas as well as voice our own.

The Ontario chapter of the Outdoor Writers of Canada will hold their annual meeting at the Royal Winter Fair. All these outdoor recreation minded folk find the Royal worth their attention, maybe you should.

By now, everyone knows of the fabulous fishing in and around the Georgian Bay area and the Lake Huron tributaries. The methods may vary with Individuals but the game is the same. One angling family put it this way: The husband caught an eight-pound salmon. Knowing the poor quality of Salmon at this time of year, he took the roe, gave the fish away to his neighbor and took his family fishing with the Salmon eggs. He proceeded to catch an eight-pound Rainbow Trout, his wife took a six-pound Rainbow, and his eightyear-old daughter complained that they would not let her in on the fun. Soon the youngeter went off to play leaving her line in the water and the rod on the bank. Father soon noticed the rod moving and called the girl to take it. She landed a fine three-pound Rainbow Trout. Better than one eight-pound salmon?? The Georgetown Anglers and Hunters are having another Turkey Shoot at their club house on the Eighun Line near Ballinafad. I don't know whether or not there is any specific cause to which the proceeds will go, I just read about these and don't know first hand. However it has to be something worthwhile, so get out and support the club and have a good time while you are at it.

Try to do something this week to educate someone on the conservation of our ONTARIO OUTDOORS.

Signs of improvement but...

Gemini slump continues cure for a slump either an individual one or a team one, he'd make a million. Myriad reasons and similarly countless excuses have been offered for this malignancy in the past, but to date, the best diagnosis offered seems to be, "Wait It out."

The Georgetown Geminis, of the Central Ontario Junior "B" Hockey League, are still mired in their rut, following a 5-1 loss to Burlington at home on Saturday night and a 5-3 loss to Brampton, Sunday night in Brampton but coach Paul Robinson feels things are improving.

Asked to assess the losses. he commented, "Yes, sure I'm puzzled and concerned about the way the team has been playing lately, that's natural in to be successful in this league

If someone discovered a sure my position. Still, I don't feel once things fall into place and I the boys played that badly on Saturday and Sunday and there were signs that things are turning around."

> Prior to the weekend losses. Robinson was displeased about the play of several players and the play of the team on the whole. However after an extensive talk and a team meeting, he felt the air had been cleared.

> The leases to Brampton and Burlington didn't change his view as he felt that the players criticized were playing better and that the team was instituting the coaching suggestions he'd insisted on. "It will come together again, I'm sure of that," insisted

"I feel we have the players definitely believe we are a much better team than our present position in the league standings indicates."

Robinson has given his charges a vote of confidence, now it is up to them to prove that their coach's confidence is not being misplaced. At home on Saturday night, the Geminis were simply overpowered by league Burlington. leading Burlington held a 3-0 lead before Larry Peterson, from Doug Barnes, got the Gems on the scoreboard to narrow the gap to 3-1. Burlington scored again however, less than a minute after the Gemini goal and added one more tally in the third frame for the icing on the cake of the 5-1 win. Mark Lipnicky, with two goals, Ron Royle, John Glass and Terry Boyair were the Burlington marksmen.

Two Gemini inadequacies really came to the fore on Saturday night and they, in effect, spelled the difference. The Geminis had 13 powerplay opportunities and converted only one into a score. This problem ties in with another irritant and that is the lack of drive from the blueline in. In other words, finishing off scoring chances. Although five shots slipped past him, Rick Tomkinson, again came up with a solid effort. Gemini Captain, Rick Becker, showed signs of shaking off her personal alump and young Bill Allison Is proving that he belongs in Junior "B" hockey.

A third period lapse proved the Geminis' undoing in Brampton on Sunday evening as they led 2-1 after two periods of play. Dale Mieszaniec drew first blood of the game for the "Gems" at the 10:11 mark of the middle stanza, converting passes from Joe South and Rick Brampton tied the game at the 18:21 mark on a goal by Craig Hartwell, but Rick Becker, with his first goal of the year, on passes from Chris Milne and Terry "T.T." Turner sent the Geminis to the dressing room with a 2-1, two period lead. Brampton began to move early in the final frame, on a goal by Blake Shorthill at the 2:23 mark and before the Geminis hit the scoresheet again, the "Flower Town" boys had an insurmountable, 5-2 lead. The other Brampton scorers were, Ross Brownridge, who potted a pair and Paul Cook, who added a

Kevin Reeks rounded out the game scoring for the Geminis on a pass from Charlie Knoepfli at the 15:32 mark but that was all the offentive thrust that the locals could manage in the 5-3 loss.

The Geminis play twice this week, on Friday at Milton and back home at the worden Alcolt Memorial Arena on Satday night against Dixle. Four points would certainly prove a halm on the Geminis' suffering at this point and would get them right back in the league's first division. Game time on Saturday night is 7:50 p.m.

Statistics reveal Gemini problems

The current slump that is plaguing the Georgetown Geminis of the Central Ontario Junior "B" hockey league is reflected in their slip in the league standings. Two weeks ago the Gems sported an undefeated record and were pursuing lead leader, Burlington, with a vengeance.

Since then, however, the Geminis have managed but only point in five games and find themselves tied for third spot with Dixie. Each club has 10 points. The most telling statistic as far as the Geminis are concerned is their "Goals For" total. Although Brampton and Milton trail the local favourites in the point total, Georgetown has accred seven fewer goals than the last place club. It is in this area that they will have to improve
