Astrology an aid to find yourself among stars

Like yoga, and meditation, astrology is an aid to obtaining spiritual happiness, however, according to Wendel Steinhausen, an avid astrology researcher, astrology has the widest scope for aid and learning.

Mr. Steinhausen, a raident of this area for the past 20 years, has been interested in astrology for a long, long time with the last two years being intently devoted to the study and research of astrology. As part of the night courses offered by the Halton Board of Education, Mr. Steinhausen will instruct a ten-week course entitled "Astrology". The aim of the course is to illustrate how astrology can be an aid to self analysis with an ultimate aim of understanding one's role in family and society and to obtain spiritual happiness. Apart from the many beliefsthat a published horoscope is truth and that zodiac signs describe exactly a person's personality, Mr. Stenhausen thinks that astrology should only be used for the achievement of spiritual happiness within one's self.

"I don't live by the stars. I don't read my own chart. I live each day, day by day. Predictions made astrologers are correct. The stars never lie but it is God's doing how individual outcomes may result", explained Mr. Steinhausen.

He continued to explain why predictions often do not follow the line, thus astrology is termed a fraud.

"God created heaven first, then the earth, then man. The stars were a creation of God and the stars give us a picture of what human life is going to be like. The stars never lie but the stars do not form a decree by God. The final arbitrator always remains God." An example told by Mr.

Steinhausen clearly illustrates

"If I read in the stars that today is a bad day for you to travel, yet you still board the plane for a trip to Los Angeles. The plane crashes killing 99 people and only you survived. Asking yourself why you were the only one to survive, you look at the stars. The stars predicted the total outcome of the fourney however, as God is the final arbitrator, it was his decision that it was not your time yet and thatyou have not completed your designated tasks in life."

through a course taken He hopes that, through this covering astrology, Mr. Steinhausen began research on his own collecting a library of well over 50 books covering the topics of astrology. He is convinced that the only true way to find yourself is to study

"The only way you can achieve apiritual happiness from within is to have a genuine interest in yourself anf in astrology. The only way you can learn of the workings of astrology is by looking Into yourself and looking at your course, more people will become interested enough in the subject to perhaps form a society to delve into the countless aspects of astrology.

"I don't want people to get the idea that after the course independently with some , they can draw up, just say their husband's or wive's charts and see where their particular problems lie. This can be done, however the person studying the subject must find out about themselves before they can help anyone else."

"If I look back into my own

THE FASCINATING WORLD OF ASTROLOGY Wendel Steinhausen of Georgetown has been interested in astrology as far back as he can remember, however for the past two years he has devoted much of his time and energy delving into the countless aspects of the study of the stars. Mr. Steinhausen will begin teaching a night course in Astrology beginning in January in connection with courses offered by the Halton Board of Education.

own elusive spirit. Once you life it took me 50 years to find that I should have been a teacher by profession and it was only through astrology that I found this out. I always thought that I had the confidence to do so. knowing this, now it is strictly up to me to develop myself in the field. At the age of 50 it is a bit bit too late to begin working towards a teachers degree but

Mr. Steinhausen continued to explain that scientists often term astrology "bunch of bunk" beause there is no tangible evidence. However he believes that in order to form an intelligent opinion on any subject one must before making any conclusions. "Scientists do know that the sun, the moon, the rotations of the earth around the sun, etc., all have influence on our lives and on the universe as a whie. Why their are the heavenly bodies termed as not being influential?" questioned Mr.

Steinhausen. "Astrology can help yourself. Astrology is a there are so many aspects to research and to discovery.
