Fishing's a family sport

by Bob Olliver
Herald Outdoor Writer
 The Trout Season is open. This is often the signal for whole families to get out into the outdoors. The trilliums are out, and the adders-tongues are just showing their colours. I noticed an "Ill Scented Wakerobin" that, for you who are not familiar with wild flowers, is a red trillium.
 The previous weekend weather should have come last weekend and last weekend's weather should have come weeks ago. That may sound as mixed up as the weather itself now.
 It started out frosty Friday night, warmed up a little for Saturday morning, then turned to rain by Saturday afternoon. Lots of folk started out with high hopes of a weekend of fishing for the Trout that are available with the season now open, but by Saturday most areas were starting to deteriorate.
 Sunday gave up the heavy wet snow and all hopes of a pleasant weekend were gone. Streams ran high and all fishing virtually ceased. Only the hardy braved the elements
