

Silvers changes hands

Silver's store on Main Street South in Georgetown recently changed hands, and the new owners are going to change the format.

A week ago Tuesday, business partners Keith Hawtin and Ross Garlick took over the business and have decided to convert the men's wear shop into a family clothing store.

A small section on the main floor has already been stocked with ladies garments and within three months, Garlick predicted, the shelves will be filled with more women's clothes and accessories, household textiles including sheets and towels, and clothes for kids.

Long range plans include knocking out a wall on the lower storey to accommodate a children's wear section adacent to "Another World", which features jeans and other garb popular with youth.

"We're going to run medium priced, quality merchandise, and carry on Sid's reputation for honest, straight forward dealings," explained Garlick, adding that he prefers stocking Canadian manufactured goods and imports "only when it's absolutely necessary."

Re-painting the bown walls off-white is the only renovation project proposed at the present time.

Another change will be the hours: open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday until 6 p.m. and until 8:30 Thursdays and Fridays.

"It will be fun to work in a small community and get to know the people after experiencing the impersonalization of the city," said Hawtin, formerly employed as a children's wear buyer by C. W. Robinson in Hamilton. During his 18 years in the retail business, he worked for Waldbaum and Hudson's Bay stores, and dreamed of having his own shop.

"It was a matter of waiting for the right thing to come along and recognizing the right deal," said Hawtin.

Garlick, a twenty-year veteran in the field of fashion who left his position as vice-president of marketing at Walkers in Toronto, is equally intrigued by the challenge.

The partners have known each other for 17 years and Garlick contacted Hawtin when he was informed by a friend in Montreal that Sid Silver was retiring from the family business established in 1929.

DREAM COME TRUE...Veterans in the retail business Ross Garlick (left) and Keith Hawtin entered into a partnership and purchased Silver's store in Georgetown upon the retirement of former owner Sid Silver. Plans are to convert the men's wear shop into a family clothing store.

Fairgrounds site of Olympics, Cub-style

Georgetown Fairgrounds was the site of the Cub Olympics, attended by 130 local Cubs last Saturday.

"It's not serious athletics; we're just out for fun," emphasized Steve Tompkinson, staff member of the Georgetown District Cubs, which included North Halton, Limehouse, Acton and Norval.

Teams were composed of boys from different packs to enable them to meet new friends and to eliminate inter-pack competition, said Tompkinson.

As far as spectators were concerned, the obstacle course was the most interesting event.

Other activities included somersaulting, racing with a balloon between the legs, roll, hop and jump, back jumps, and wheelbarrow racing.

In conjunction with the Olympic theme chosen for the 1976 Cubaree, each team was identified by the name of country.

For the throwing events, shot puts were improvised from sponges, cardboard paper plates were used as discs, and straws were connected together to form javelins.

Each participant received a crest and ribbons were provided for the teams that placed first, second and third.

A picnic lunch was an enjoyable interlude in the day-long Cubaree.
