Year before study complete, chairman says

Regional public works chairman Jack Rafis says it will be 1977 before completed reports are received on the status of the proposed regional landfill sites. Mr. Rafis, told regional council last week that it is unlikely his committee will support the use of Site A, the Burlington landfill site because of the cost. Council tabled for further evaluation a feasibility study of the site which showed costs would be about $1.8 million for five years, a cost which is "economically unfeasible," Mr. Rafis said. "That's only for a five year capacity, too," he said. "It works out to be 2 1/2 times as expensive as Site F (near) Milton." "Even the landowner has said he'd want $15,000 an acre and that's not included in the $1.8 million price tag," he said. The proposal for the Burlington landfill site includes the purchase of 150 to 200 acres of land. Oakville Coun. Bill Mason said the proposal should be dropped. "It is also limited in capacity and operation," he said. "The public works committee surely would have gone in a different direction before now if it wasn't for this council's insistence." Couns. Mary Munro and Terry Mannell both urged comparative studies on all other proposed sites. "I don't seem to me," Mrs. Munro said, "we keep hearing about the disadvantages about Site A but never any comparative topics about Site F. I would like to see a report on that before a decision is made."

Indecent exposure reported

Police charged a 20 year old RR2 Georgetown man with two counts under the Narcotics Control Act, Sept. 2 after executing a search warrant and discovering approximately three pounds of suspected marijuana, 27 plant stumps, four live plants, a set of weight scales, cigarette papers and a cigarette roller. Police said the plants had been grown at the rear of the residence. Police have a suspect in an incident of indecent exposure which took place Aug. 30 on Park Street in Georgetown. Described as a white male about 35 years old, medium build and with graying blond hair combed back over the ears and a grayish blond goatee, the suspect was observed in the seat of a medium sized brown vehicle after motioning a woman accompanied by her two daughters and her brother to the car. Approximately $50 in silver dollars and half dollar coins was stolen from the McGillivray Crescent home of a Georgetown woman, Sept. 5, police said. Police have no suspects in the case of a theft of a public address system and an amplifier and a case of 24 empty beer bottles stolen from the Riviera Club in Norval, Sept. 4, they said. The Norval public school was entered Sept. 4 after thieves broke a window at the front of the building and reached in to unlock the door, police said. Nothing was stolen. The Beaumont Knitting Mills in Glen Williams was twice broken into Sept. 1, police said. In one incident the thieves entered the building through an insecure window at the rear of the building then forcibly opened a door leading to the warehouse where a clerk's desk was ransacked, and a portable electric calculator and $2 were stolen, police said. In the other incident thieves failed to gain entry to the main building but did enter the plant by climbing up a conveyor belt to the second story roof. A can of V-belt oil dressing was spread on the floor, police said. Thieves stole five sheets of 3/4 inch by four feet by eight feet plywood from a RR5 lot, Sept. 1, police said. A bright orange 10-speed bicycle with black handle bars was stolen from Fagan Drive, Sept. 1, police said. Police suspect two females about 18 years old of breaking into a RR1 Georgetown residence Aug. 31 and stealing a stereo system including speakers, furniture and a receiver with an 8-track tape deck. Entry was gained to the house through unpecked doors, police said.
