Raylawn neighbors robbed

Thieves, who entered a Raylawn Cr. home through a bedroom window during the daylight hours, Sept. 14, got away with a large quantity of food and a ladies electric razor, police said.

Another Raylawn Crescent home was the scene of a break and enter and theft, Sept. 15 when thieves stole a transistor radio valued at $40, police said. Entry was gained through a kitchen window between 11 p.m. Sept. 14 and 3:45 a.m. Sept. 15 police said.

Thieves stole a 12 gauge single barrel shot gun from a Norton Crescent home, Sept. 13, police said. Entry was gained through insecure doors.

Police charged a Mountview Road man Sept 14 with the break and enter and theft of a skill saw and combination transit and tripod, which all were recovered, after being stolen from a trailer parked at Guelph Street and Armstrong Avenue construction site.

Police charged a McNabb Street man with assault Sept. 14. The victim, a Normandy Blvd. man, required crutches after the beating, police said.

Newspaper vending boxes in the Georgetown Market were the targets of thieves Sept. 15. Police are investigating the theft of two wire-spoked wheels covers valued at $100 which were stolen from a car parked at the Gordon Alcott Arena, Sept. 19 between 5:30 and 8:20 p.m.

OPP out; taxes up

Halon taxpayers face increased burdens because the province will withdraw the services of the Ontario Provincial Police in the region, the police commission agreed Thursday.

How much more will be known after official provincial and the preparation of a cost report, expected soon, Police Chief Ken Skerrett said.

Chief Skerrett said "more detectives" may be posted in Georgetown resulting from the region taking over policing of the areas formerly serviced by the OPP. About five or six extra officers will be needed, by the March 1, 1977 deadline.

In removing the OPP, the province will increase its police grant to $15 per person in the region from the current $12.
