Fred Megelink, left, discusses the issues of a son's education with electricity and auto mechanics teacher Glen Wright at the GDHS parent's night held Monday.

Swine flu shots get nod

Halton Regional Health Unit will proceed with the influenza vaccination program as recommended by the National Advisory Committee on Immunizing Agents, says Dr. J.H. Chamberlain, medical officer of health for the region.

He said Tuesday that although there is not a vaccine recommended for children, the Ontario ministry of health plans to begin negotiations with manufacturers for the development of a suitable vaccine.

Bivalent (A-Victoria, 1974 and A-New Jersey, 1976) will be offered to persons with chronic illnesses by their family physicians.

Persons over 65 years of age will be offered the vaccine at health unit clinics.

If you have any type of heart or lung disease, diabetes or any other chronic metabolic disorder, Dr. Chamberlain recommends you consult your family doctor regarding administration of the bivalent vaccine.

Special clinic locations and dates for persons over 65 to receive the bivalent vaccine will likely be published within the next three weeks.

Monovalent vaccine (A-New Jersey, 1976) will be offered to persons aged 20 to 65 by the Halton Region Health Unit at special clinics as soon as the vaccine is available, likely in the next few weeks.

Persons with known hypersensitivity to egg protein should not receive the vaccine.

To receive your injection, watch the paper for clinic times and locations closest to you. The date that the bivalent vaccine will be available from your family physician will also be published and broadcasted.
