Heslop Ct.
site of 34 homes

Heslop Court in southeast Georgetown could become the site of an additional 34 single family homes if town planner Mario Venditti approves a draft plan submitted to planning board.
The proposal would involve the extension of Heslop Court's cul-de-sac, which is presently the site of a single estate home built by the late Rex Heslop senior, who initiated the early development of the Delrex subdivision.
The home, still owned along with the surrounding area, by the Heslop family, would be retained for the new development, as would all existing trees.

David Search of Habitat Planning Consultants told the board that the 25-acre subdivision, would be developed in two stages, with the final result being 34 lots of at least 6,000 square feet in area.
In accordance with conservative authority stipulations, he said, the developers Colos-sus Developments Ltd., would build all lots within a "hazard line," outside of which the existing open space would be divided into public and private park areas. Access to the public park, comprising 1.5 acres of the total area, would take the form of a walkway.

Farmers offered improvement projects
Several projects are being offered by the Halton Soil and Crop Improvement Association.
Projects will start with a farm tour of Halton in the summer, a bus tour with Peef members and potesh trials on Alfalfa fields.
The association is offering educational projects on weed control of corn, nitrogen on corn and wheat, rootworm on corn and discussion of varieties of corn.
Special techniques will be discussed-involving direct seeding of Forages without plowing or working the ground, tillage practices, the benefit of planting red clover with a grain crop, and discussion of why some alfalfa stands remain longer than others, and the question of hay stackers or using large round bales.
Anyone interested in one of the above projects should contact the agricultural office 878-2314.
