Cancer society info officer finds job "comes naturally"

A very busy woman, Deanna Butwell, finds her position as publicity chairman for the Halton Hills Cancer Society "comes naturally."

Mrs. Butwell loves to write articles, a major function of being publicity chairman. Also, she finds her enthusiasm grows when working with dedicated persons involved in the cancer society.

Although Mrs. Butwell places her family first because her eight-year-old and three year-old sons are growing so fast, she cannot simply stay at home.

Between her home life, attending meetings of the cancer society, particularly meetings when special speakers attend spreading hope of the latest cancer research, Mrs. Butwell rides her bicycle, plays the organ, does ceramics and in the winter goes cross-country skiing.

During the school year, she helps children with reading difficulties at Joseph Gibbon school. She enjoys encouraging the children to read.

"Often, it is a matter of simply not being ready to read, which is more common in males than females," she said.

Once her children are older Mrs. Butwell said she will probably become more deeply involved with the cancer society and with the community.

She is deeply interested in staying in touch with the service groups and the people in town.
