

Reed supports bill

Liberal MPP Julian Reed said Monday he will support a private member's bill on small business to be submitted by fellow Liberal MPP John Eakins.

Mr. Eakins, a MPP for Victoria-Halliburton, is presenting a bill entitled "An Act Respecting Small Businesses in Ontario" which is designed for the preservation and expansion of small business enterprise.

The bill will cover tendering policies, sub-contracting research and development and small business co-operatives as a means of encouraging small businesses.

Mr. Reed said he has received numerous telegrams and phone calls asking him to support the bill. Under the new rules of legislation, Mr. Reed said this bill has a good chance of becoming law, even though it will be introduced by a member of the opposition.

Townhall contingency funds

Halton Hills finance administration committee has recommended that there be a $3,000 contingency fund over and above the $184,000 cost of adding a second floor to the fire station in Acton.

Engineer Alan Zeegan told the committee last week that there are unforeseen occurrences when attempting an addition to an existing structure rather than building from the ground up.

"It would be unusual not to find things," he said, citing some examples of what happened when parts of Cedarvale Community Centres were dismantled because of safety reasons.

He was concerned that if something turned up over and above what's anticipated, there could be a two week delay or longer to get council to approve additional funds.

But even in small changes in the plans, he would consult either Fire Chief Mick Holmes, committee chairman Russ Miller or other councillors, he said. Under the normal course of events, he would require written authorization before proceeding.

Treasurer Ray King told the committee that a contingency fund in the reconstruction of Georgetown Memorial Arena was a policy decision of council. But in his experience with municipal contracts, "... quite often there is a contingency fund with the (municipal) department."

The measure still needs the final approval of council.

Twelve delegates to PC convention

Two Georgetown residents will be among the 12 delegates and alternates elected by the Federal Brampton-Georgetown Progressive Conservative riding association for the annual PC convention to be held in Quebec City Nov. 4, 5, and 6.

Fran Baines will attend as a delegate and David Baker will be a youth alternate delegate.

Phil Upshall, Everett Biggs, Mrs. Baines and John McDermid will attend as delegates while Kathy Quinlan and Stan Sutter will be youth delegates.

Alternates are: Jim Mitchell, Diane Sutter, Noreen Blathwayt. Youth alternates are: Mr. Baker and Jay Mathers.

Returns to school

Robert Anderson, the Centennial school student known for his wrestling ability and who was critically injured when he was struck by a car on Duncan Drive July 20, is back in school this week. Mrs. Anderson says Robert is attending classes at Centennial each afternoon and seeing a tutor at home every morning. He is still taking therapy and although his leg is getting stronger he is not able to wrestle.

Sign approved

A recommendation from Works Committee that council approve signs saying that Acton is a Block Parent Community was passed last week subject to approval of the engineering staff. If all the approvals are given the organization will be able to erect their signs at both ends of the two highways passing through the community.

Draw winner

D Mitchell of RR4, Acton was the winner of the draw at the Georgetown Arts and Crafts exhibit at the North Halton Golf and Country Club on Saturday.
