TODAY'S ANSWER

Jewishness determined by mother

Dear Ann: Why didn't you set the record straight for "Concerned Reader"? According to traditional Jewish law, the Jewishness of the offspring is determined by the mother. If she is Jewish, the child is a Jew. If she is Gentile, the child is Gentile — despite the father's Jewishness.

So, you should have told Mary Ann (who is Gentile) and Mark (who is Jewish) that even if they agree to raise their children as Jews, they will not be considered Jewish. Only if Mary Ann is willing to undergo conversion before marriage — or the kids decide to be converted when they are old enough — will they be considered Jewish. — Studied It.

Dear Studied: The "traditional law" doesn't mean much to people who have prejudices — and unfortunately, there are a lot of those cats around. In the United States, a child whose last name is Cohen, Levy, or Rabinowitz is considered Jewish even if his mother was a McSweeney.

Dear Ann Landers: May I use your column to let off steam? I am so mad I think I might pop a blood vessel. I was visiting in the home of a friend this afternoon when her teenage daughter bounced into the living room and interrupted our conversation by sticking a fistful of raffle tickets in my face. She demanded that I buy some.

The girl had cornered me once before and I was too embarrassed to refuse. Later, I was mad at myself and decided I would never be used that way again. I simply said, "No, thank you" and went on talking.

From that moment on the temperature in the room turned chilly. The girl's mother became quite formal and when I left I could tell she was mad at me.

May I have your opinion of this? Was I wrong — Barrington

Dear Barr: No. The girl's mother was wrong to permit her daughter to solicit a guest. I applaud you for refusing to be intimidated. Dear Ann Landers: Someone very dear to me has lived with a speech impediment all his life. Since childhood he has been putting up with tasteless jokes, mimicry and insulting wisecracks.

It's a damn shame that people who are struggling to overcome stuttering are made fun of by TV personalities. Not only is it humiliating for the person who has the problem but it can be very embarrassing to those who are watching the show with that individual. It's the same as doing an imitation of a cripple who can't walk without limping or dragging a leg.

While the TV networks are taking a third and fourth look at violence and smut I wish they would do something about ridiculing the handicapped — I Care.

Dear Friend: So do I. Here's your letter and I hope it helps. Laughs at the expense of handicapped people are cheap shots. The best way to get rid of offensive material on TV is write to the sponsor and the head of the network. The consumer if king — if only he knew it.

CONFIDENTIAL to Flat-Chested and Scared to Take Your Advice: I have already received dozens of letters from highly respected surgeons who have asked me to inform my readers that the article to which you refer, stating that 80 per cent of the silicone breast implants result in "trouble," is a disgraceful collection of poor research, loaded with misinformation. I trust my consultants. They are the finest in the country.

A no-nonsense approach of how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers booklet "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Terra Cotta roundabout

By ANDRE

Herald correspondent I popped into the Hall this week just to see if "The Easy Helpful Exercise Class" was easy enough for me, and found that it certainly was.

The dozen or so ladies of the group are privileged to have Dr. L.E. Jaquith M.D.D.O. as their leader, a gentleman of expert knowledge gained through many years of Osteopathic practice.

There was no puffing, blowing or pretending to touch toes, the exercises are designed to stretch the diaphragm and loosen the joints in a relaxed manner, promoting a feeling of well-being because of better circulation.

Dr. Jaquith says 10 minutes morning and afternoon are all that is required to feel the benefit throughout the winter.

Two of the group's new members are also comparatively new to the community. They are Mrs. June Hopkins and her husband Lawrence, and son John, who came to live in Terra Cotta a year ago.

She has two married daughters and is excited about becoming a grandmother for the second time. She lives by the river on the site of the old grist mill that was pulled down some years ago. Naturally she is interested in this little bit of history and frankly I am too, as I believe the old wheel was left. I wonder where it is now? Her friend and neighbour, Mrs. Gwyneth Thompson is just across the road living in what is fondly known as "the castle." I like to think of it as "Hawks' Nest" as every time I come across the hill there is usually a hawk, or two hovering above the rosy bricks of her lovely house.

Both she and her husband Ronald are enchanted by the splendid views and trees of Terra Cotta, although son Nigel spends a lot of his time training the new Husky not to run across the road. Mr. Thompson, who is a managing director of a Toronto firm makes the pilgrimage every day but says the journey relaxes him. Gwyneth spends a lot of time in her garden but is planning to launch a family canoe trip down the Credit in the spring.

passed around. Some of these were Paprika, Fennel La Spice used on pizzas, Escarole, Lentils, Endive and Eggplant.

Afterward we broke off into small groups and made pizza, hungarian goulash, cucumbers and yogurt, salata, and beet and cabbage salad.

The meeting was closed with O Canada.

The third meeting of the Ashgrove Apple Dumpling Gang was held at the home of Mrs. Ringfield on Oct. 4. Seventeen of the 19 members were present.

This meeting dealt with the British Tradition. Different recipes from the British Isles were made including Welsh Rabbit, Finnan Haddie, Irish Soda Bread and Apple Dumplings. We also sampled a variety of cheeses such as Blue, Brick, Goat's Milk, Brie and Camabert.

The fourth meeting was held on Oct. 11, at the home of Mrs. Bird. The subject for the exhibit on Achiever Day will be "Treasure Trove". This week's subject was the Europeans, the Germans, Dutch and Belgians.

We made Split Pea Soup, Sausage and Tomato Bake, Potato Pancakes, Hot Potato Salad, Pickled Eggs and German Tea Squares.

The fifth meeting of the "Ashgrove Apple Dumpling Gang" was held on Oct. 17 at the home of Elizabeth and Marilyn Bird.

This meeting discussed the Italian and Eastern European food culture.

We talked about ingredients commonly used in Italy, Greece, Rumania, the Ukraine, Poland, Hungary, and Yugoslavia. Later we held a quiz in which the members had to identify foods that were

Put Your Lazy Pickup To Work With UNI-HOIST Dump Conversion.

If your pickup just sits there on its axle snoozing while you're lifting and straining to unload it, you need the UNI-HOIST electric/hydraulic dump attachment — a sure cure for lazy pickups.

All over America, standard pickups now earn their keep by doubling as dumptrucks with this rugged, easy-to-install dump accessory.

Flip a switch and UNI-HOIST turns your dozing pickup into a dumptruck...unloading 2 tons in 16 seconds, while you rest. UNI-HOIST fits all standard U.S. pickups. It bolts on easily, without welding and there's no change in the body lines to make your pickup self-conscious.

Give your pickup muscles — and save yours. Save time and money too, with more possible hauling trips. See a demonstration of how UNI-HOIST turns puny pickups into hard-working dumptrucks. For full-color brochure and complete details, contact.....

COMPACT SPLIT LEVEL

Here's a compact and well-planned design which is perfectly suited to the narrow frontage lot. The charming brick veneer exterior conceals a surprising amount of intelligently-organized living area, making this an ideal home for the mid-sized family.

The deep weather-sheltered entrance leads into the compact foyer and up two steps to the main living area. The kitchen-nook combination, dining room and living room are on the lower level, while the three bedrooms, bath and linen storage are on the upper level.

The U-shaped kitchen and breakfast nook are logically laid out to provide the comfort and convenience of those casual family meals, while the dining room allows for more formal dining with family or friends. The dining room is separable from the kitchen via a sliding door and allows access to a possible rear deck or patio via sliding glass doors - a convenience feature for relaxed outdoor dining.

The spacious living room has good natural light and its location provides for disturbance-free entertaining.

The three second level bedrooms all have good natural light, generous closet space and easy access to the main bath and linen supply. The master bedroom has a three piece ensuite with shower.

A half basement provides the space required for future development. This area could be developed as a family room or recreation room, allowing the growing family additional living area.

Plans for design No. 76-1254 may be obtained at a cost of $50. for the first set and $9. for each additional set, plus $4.00 for postage and handling.

Send for the current edition of Select Home Designs Series No. 34 featuring imaginative decorating and home improvement ideas plus 350 quality home plans of every type. Available for $2.25 ($1.75 plus 50 cents postage and handling). To order these items please send cheque or money order payable to the Home of the Week. Address to:
