Investigate entrance

Horton Hills engineering staff has been requested to study the problem of giving access off Bower Avenue to Yaman, Artis and Crafts in Acton for the second time.

Works committee made the request after Vijaya Chandra, owner of the business, appeared before the committee to ask that some arrangement be arrived at whereby the shipping and receiving for his business could be done through the rear of the premises.

The engineering staff had previously studied the problem to access to the Station Hotel from the rear, and had concluded that allowing an entrance on a curve such as if found on Bower Avenue would create a hazard.

A previous proposal called for making Bower Avenue a one-way street along part of its length, but residents and businessmen in the area were opposed to the idea.

Town engineer Bob Austin said that the hotel had requested an entrance on to Bower Avenue as well, but the request was denied.

"The hotel entrance would be on one side of the bad curve, and Mr. Chandra's entrance on the other. You can't deny the hotel access and grant it to Mr. Chandra," he said.

"Transports backing up on Mill Street are a nuisance and a hazard," Mr. McKenzie said. "Some of the other places where trucks are entering are even more dangerous than Bower."

Coun. George Malby pointed out that there is a difference between knowing a hazard exists and creating a situation which is hazardous.
