

The fashion line up this Spring is. . .

Spring isn't too far away. That was the message almost 300 women received at Fashions by Bettianne, a fashion show produced by Bettianne to raise money for the Georgetown and District Hospital Auxiliary. Although the final calculations aren't complete yet, it is established that the show raised about $700. The ladies were served sherry and soft drinks as they watched the models walk down the promenade, showing the new spring fashions.

Auxiliary president Jean Macdonald said that thanks to a number of fund-raising activities, and the generosity of Georgetown residents, the auxiliary has been able to donate about $20,000 in equipment and funds to the hospital in the last few years.

The fashions modelled in the show were provided by Bettianne, with shoes and boots provided by Fletcher's Family Shoe Store.

... summer elegance

Linda Miskolci models a wedding gown set off with her own specially designed accessories. Mrs. Miskolci operates a business known as The Finishing Touch from her home in Georgetown. She makes accessories for weddings and also does flower arrangements and centrepieces.

... flexible comfort

Anna shows off a dress with a matching jacket for cooler weather this spring.

... streetwear

Spring was the theme of the show, with many spring dresses including this one, bringing a round of applause.

... glamour

Anna models a penguin set "designed for those evenings at home."
