

NEW POLICE ADMINISTRATOR

A man with previous careers in journalism and aviation has become the first administrator of the Halton region police force.

Raymond A. Munro, 56, will have the status of deputy chief, but he will have no involvement in police matters. His work will revolve around the budgets, assets of the force and civilian staff.

Mr. Munro attended his first meeting of the police commission Thursday.

For the past six years, Mr. Munro has been executive vice-president of Canada's Aviation Hall of Fame. A native of Montreal and educated in Toronto, he served as a fighter pilot during the Second World War, in the RCAF. He was posted to the fighter wing of the RAF's legless ace, Douglas Bader, as a Spitfire pilot.

Chief of a daily newspaper in 1958 to form Munro Aviation Company, for which he flew as chief pilot on geophysical operations in Northern Canada. In 1970, he became the first person to pilot a balloon across the Irish Sea. Mr. Munro was named to the Order of Canada for significant contributions as an investigative newsmen and a professional pilot.
