

FIRST (?) AT FAIRY LAKE

Joel Pink, 13 and Lenard Miller, 15, proudly show off the fish Lenard caught Monday morning in Fairy Lake. The boys weren't too sure just what kind it was so they asked a fellow fisherman who identified it as a pickerel so far as the boys know it's the first one to be taken from the lake.

Child services funding termed provincial 'ploy'

The provincial government's recent decision to finance children's services in Halton region could be a political "ploy" aimed at eliminating the Children's Aid Society, Milton Coun. Jim Kerr speculated at last week's regional health and social services committee meeting.

Halton chief administrative officer Ernest Reid informed the committee that a recent meeting with representatives of the ministry of health indicated that funding for the service in Halton is being lined up, but the province has yet to decide to what extent it will subsidize a regional program and through what agency the funds will be administered.

A volunteer steering committee has been established to monitor current services and work with regional officials to prepare the program, Mr. Reid explained.

Coun. Kerr commented that the news makes the Children's Aid Society "a big question mark". The province could either place it solely in charge of the service funding or eliminate it altogether, he said.

Halton Hills Coun. Roy

Booth motioned that the agency to be set up for the program should in no way resemble the Halton district health council in structure.

Over objections from Coun. Pat McKenzie, who defended the health council, Coun. Booth called its work a "malaise" suffused in "red tape".

"I'm not belittling the work of its members," he said, "I just don't like the original set-up. There's a fantastic duplication of services".

Coun. Booth cited as an example the efforts of the Georgetown District Memorial Hospital board in proposing the construction of a badly-needed nursing home. Two years later, after extensive studies of its own were finally completed, the health council agreed with the hospital board that the nursing home was needed, he said.

Mr. Reid pointed out that the structure of the new agency will require regional council's approval once his work in planning the program is completed.

limited to single-lane traffic and vehicles of less than 22 tons in weight.

Public works director Bob Moore also proposed improvements to the road alignment to be carried out at the same time, requiring the acquisition of roadside property from two private owners.

"The work has been designed to accommodate future plans to reconstruct the section of number 15 sideroad east to Trafalgar Road," he explained.

Mr. Moore estimated that, if the property can be purchased, the region can hold a public hearing on the proposal early in September and invite tenders for the work in October.

Burlington Coun. Vern Connell expressed amazement at reconstruction plans for the road, which he viewed in photographs provided by Mr. Moore.

"That cowtrail wouldn't qualify for much more than a footpath anywhere else," he commented.

$115,000 estimate for Stewarttown bridge

The regional public works committee last week recommended approval of a $115,000 reconstruction project for a portion of regional road 15 (15 Sideroad) which involves the replacement of a badly dilapidated bridge just west of Trafalgar Road.

The committee agreed that the bridge, one side of which broke off and fell into the stream beneath the bridge last May, should be replaced with a 20-ton, 32-foot wide concrete structure. Since breaking apart, the bridge has been

Region to buy lands for road

Regional council today (Wednesday) is expected to approve the purchase of four parcels of land along Trafalgar Road for the planned widening and reconstruction of the road between Ashgrove and Stewarttown.

The regional public works committee last week endorsed plans to buy the parcels, which represented the ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth of 30 properties to be acquired for the widening project. A total of $145,000 has been budgeted for the acquisitions.
