

ELECT G.W. "Pat" McKenzie AREA COUNCILLOR Ward 1 Acton

With the adoption of uniform water and sewer rates for the Region of Halton which will be a great financial benefit to Acton and to which I devoted time and effort, I have decided to seek office with less responsibility. Therefore I am offering my EXPERIENCE and TIME as an AREA COUNCILLOR. With only three votes on a council of twelve members, Acton needs and deserves strong representation.

As Your Area Councillor I Will:

- continue to fight for Beardmore's needs to be accommodated in our sewage treatment plant.
- work in the best interest of all our citizens to preserve Acton's identity.
- insist on sound budget controls.
- work for an early completion of our Sr. Citizen Apartments.

Back a Fighter For Acton

—Who has the time and experience to resolve local problems.

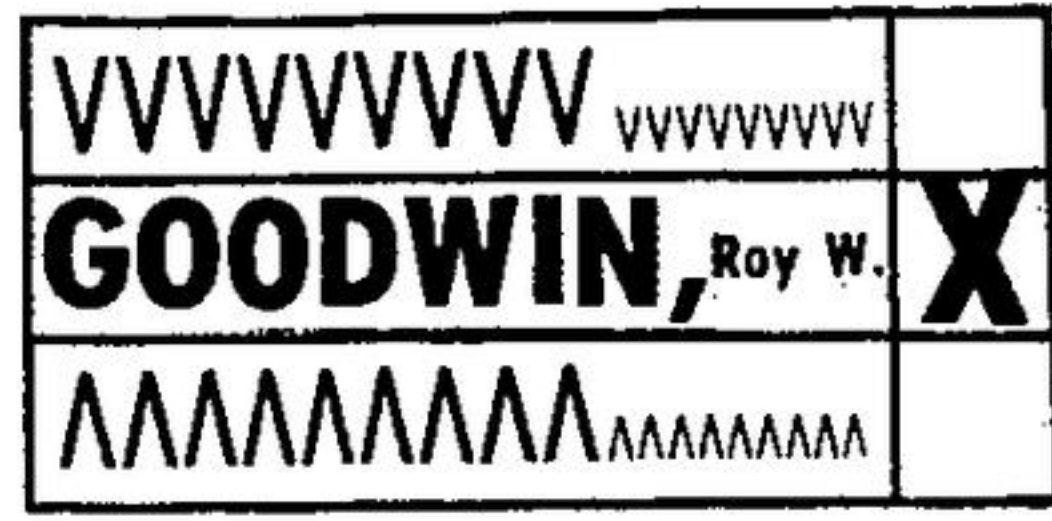

McKenzie "Pat"
Area Councillor WARD 1 Acton

HERALD CARRIER DAY

While their fellow Herald carriers from across Halton Hills looked on, Jeffrey White of Nelson Court in Acton and Frances and Jeffrey Streuter of Mountainview Road in Georgetown were presented Monday night with certificates of merit and special plaques to mark their excellent service to Herald customers in their respective communities. McDonald's Restaurant hostess Jo Lister and Marie Shadbol of the Herald staff made the presentations at the annual reception at McDonald's. Jeff White has been delivering copies of The Herald to 110 homes in the east end of Acton's Lakeview subdivision for the past two years, even though he is only ten years old. Frances Streuter, 14, and her brother Jeffrey, 12, have shared a route that extends to 122 homes on Mountainview, Haylawn and Sinclair for the past four years, and were recently the subject of a highly complimentary phone call to The Herald office from a thoroughly satisfied subscriber. Himalayan Holiday

A golf course in Gulmarg at the foot of the Himalayas.

THE seventeenth century Moghul emperor Shahjahan called it "a paradise on earth". Kashmir is certainly unsurpassed in beauty: a green valley full of placid lakes, bubbling springs, meadows, apple orchards and Moghul gardens of unbelievable beauty. The scenic splendour of the valley of Kashmir is dramatically highlighted by the magnificent range of mountains that surrounds it — the Himalayas.

The Himalayas stretch for 2,400 kilometers along the entire northern boundary of India, from Darjeeling in the east to Kashmir in the west. The Himalayas, with some of the highest peaks in the world, have something for everyone. The artist can revel in the gorgeous scenery and the nature lover in the flora and fauna. There are ruins for the archaeologist and rare birds and animals for the wildlife enthusiast. The sportsman will discover that there are unlimited opportunities for hunting, trekking and fishing. It's even possible to ski, skate, water-ski and golf. While you may not like to term it a "spiritual experience", you can't help but be affected by the exciting impact of the Himalayas.

Kashmir is a good base for your Himalayan holiday. Its capital, Srinagar, is only two hours by air from Delhi. The best seasons to visit Kashmir are in spring, mid-March to June, when the flowers are in bloom or in full, September - October, when fruit is in abundance and the weather delightful.

There are many good hotels in Srinagar, including the Oberoi Palace Hotel, on a maharaja's palace. However, if you'd like a change in pace you could rent a houseboat. The houseboats are moored on Lake Dal and Lake Nagin, and on the banks of the river Jhelum. They come in four categories with rates varying according to the facilities offered.

A luxury class houseboat, fully furnished, includes a spacious living room, dining room, bedrooms, with bath attached, a sundeck and three servants to cook your meals. You also get a private shikara, a small gondola-like boat. The price for all this luxury is less than $10.00 per day. You can relax in your houseboat and wait for Srinagar to come to you. Vendors in shikaras piled high with flowers, fruit, carpets, clothing, jewellery and handicrafts will bring their wares to you.

For a glimpse of Moghul splendour in modern times visit the series of terraced gardens around Dal Lake. The gardens were laid out over 300 years ago by the Moghul emperors. The "Nishat", or Pleasure garden, has seven terraces and contains trees that were originally imported from Persia. The largest garden, Shalimar, or "Garden of Law", offers a nightly sound and light show recreating the great love of the Emperor Jahangir for his wife Nur-Jahan.

Ski Austria this year

SYNDICATED TRAVEL NEWS — Hopfgarten is a beautiful village set in the Kitzbuhel Alps. It's at least 750 years old, and serves as a market centre for the countryside around it.

Contiki guests stay at the Gasthaus Schoneck, in the friendly care of Frau Pandrick. They're provided with bed, breakfast and main meal at night; all the accommodation is centrally heated and comes in two and three bedded rooms.

The Gasthaus has its own bar, and the nightlife in Hopfgarten is superb.

But not everyone goes on a skiing holiday just for the scenery and the nightlife; some people actually like to ski as well.

And for them, Hopfgarten is a wonderland. The skiing range is normally from 2,400 to 6,000 feet. There's at least a dozen runs to choose from; and if you like, you can take the lift to the top of the Hohe-Slave peak, and ski down the other side to the village of Soll for lunch — or you can make a few runs on the Salvengipfel T-bar.

NoVICES learn under the watchful — and experienced eye — of Lois Biembacher and his instructors; and beginners can pretty well expect to be skiing down the side of the mountain before the week's out.

The lift passes can be bought for one, seven or fourteen days — and are good for both sides of the Hohe-Slave. So, if you do ski down to Soll in the morning, you can easily come back up and ski down to Hopfgarten in the afternoon. With at least 12 lifts at your disposal, you won't have to wait too long — or find it difficult to ski on a relatively uncrowded run.

All ski equipment can be hired at a very reasonable rate; and this equipment includes boots, poles, metal-edged skis, plastic running surfaces, forward and rotational safety bindings.

As more and more Canadians are discovering, Austria is one of the, if not the, finest skiing countries in the world.

Magnificent scenery and runs to please everyone — from the clumsiest novice to the most skillful expert. It's the kind of environment that breeds champions; and as a bonus, also breeds some of the friendliest people in the world.

Of course, years ago Austria was out of the question for anyone who wasn't rich; most Canadians had to go to B.C., Quebec, Alberta or even the U.S.

And while there are some very fine runs in those places, it's never quite the same as Alpine skiing. It's not so easy to find a little half-timbered inn hidden away on the mountain-side, for one thing; nor is it so easy to find those really long, sweeping runs — unless you want to take a helicopter ride into the depths of the Rockies!

But recently, more and more European tour companies have been discovering the North American market. With air travel so inexpensive across the Atlantic, the actual cost of a two week skiing holiday in Austria isn't that much more expensive than two weeks skiing the Sierra Madre in New Mexico (supposed to have the finest powder in North America).

One of these tour companies is Contiki Travel, who specialise in tours for young adults.

Originally set up to provide luxury camping tours for (mainly) young Commonwealth citizens who wanted to 'see Europe or bust', Contiki has diversified out into a host of other, well planned and inexpensive holidays. They chose Austria because it has, in their opinion, the finest skiing in Europe. And the village where their tours stay was specially chosen because of its typical, unspoilt atmosphere.

Now for the important question — what is this going to cost you?

For two weeks, inclusive of board and accommodation and 12 ski lessons, plus transport to and from Hopfgarten to the airport, plus one excursion to the 1976 Winter Olympic Games site at Innsbruck, plus the services of the Contiki resident courier — $324! Which works out to less than $30 a day!

How do you go? Simple — nip down to your travel agent, and say that you're interested in the Contiki Winter Ski Two Week Holiday in Hopfgarten; and let your travel agent do the rest.

The season runs between December and March, but it's always a good idea to check this with your travel agent, as conditions can alter.

It's also a good idea to book early — this particular package is usually sold out!

Avoid trouble in camp with these tips on safety

The "first time" camper who becomes the "last time" camper in the same outing has probably experienced some trouble with Mother Nature.

Changing weather conditions, insects, accidents and even illness pose potential problems for every camper, but realizing the conditions and knowing what to do if trouble arises can help matters immensely.

The most efficient first aid kit won't be of much help if you don't know how to use it, and since many campers are not familiar with some of the dangers involved with living in the outdoors, it's a wise idea to read up on the area in which you plan to camp out.

Find out what dangerous plants, animals or insects inhabit the area and how they could harm you. Learn what to do about the most common camping accidents, such as insect bites, poison ivy, burns, water hazards and severe sunburn.

Buy and read a reliable first aid manual and keep it with your first aid kit. If the inevitable happens and trouble does strike, don't panic.
