Viewpoint: Bye-bye to 1978

By GERRY LANDBOROUGH
Well it appears its time to say goodbye to another year - looking back there really isn't anything too wonderful that we can say about '78. Disco fever took over in '78 as though by throwing our bodies around and round in a mad frenzy we might outrun the world of insanity that grew around us.

The world situation was anything but healthy - the world saw an increase of inflation and the year passed from crisis to crisis each one bordering on financial chaos. It would appear that '78 was a year of continuing "stick it to the consumer" and people seem almost resigned to the fact that we seldom get what we pay for anymore.

When I look back over the year through clippings and news stories it becomes very difficult to look to the bright side.

As our belts tighten the additional strain sent its own kind of madness out and people turned to bizarre cults, violent acts, and anything but a good time was had by all.

It could have been different - we have the new baby "1979" in front of us and we could greet 1980 with a departure from the '70's as a time of "it might have been."

The land of it might have been gets pretty boring year after year - another drop in the same old wash water.

Each year becomes a year of choices and we have watched most of the seventies pass not as years of surprises but as years of logical conclusions.

What remains with us - the location changes now and again for variety but as long as someone will pick up a gun in some blind sense of patriotism controlled by those who care nothing for their country or anyone else and even less for the inhabitants - war will always be with us.

Hunger and famine continue while most of North America diets. We sit back and throw our hands helplessly in the air with great cries of anguish and "what on earth can one person do" - It has always been this way. It doesn't take an expert to show that what is accepted - will continue.

If we could give a magic formula for 1979 it would be this... each day presents 24 new choices, each of us make our own choices every hour every minute of the day. Choices of acceptance a choice of inaction or the hardest choice of all - action. Any action no matter how small creates change and change is something we fear. Not everyone wants to be a front row marcher or a bannerwaver but we can all make a contribution - no matter how small it really does count. We have been conditioned to believe that only the so called experts know the answers - yet the same old problems continue from year to year. When we accept things as they are - we make a choice. This old world of ours may be far from perfect but its all we got we have to care about it.

We have to get involved we have to take our heads from the sand. Our youth are being cheated - the key phrase today is I'm bored the world appears in total chaos and our youth sit back and proclaim "I'm bored."

For our youth tuning out is a hell of a lot easier than tuning in. Somehow somewhere they had to pick up a message from us that we really were interested in the world around us and if we didn't care then they could care even less. "There's a big push to 'legalize pot'" if such a thing takes place we can look forward to youth turned into vegetables. Sitting taking in a produced euphoria while the world crumbles around them. In order to make changes a person has to think and there is no drive or push while lying on the couch watching the world float by.

As '78 drifts away in a cloud of smoke (don't cope just look) to the land of it might have been different we the custodians of our children's future can take a good hard look at what we are passing on to them.

Let us look forward to 1979 as a truly New Year. Let us reflect on what has passed, let us look forward to the future.

If we all try with even half an effort 1979 can stand out as a year among years - ahead we have 365 days in which to make it happen - personally as individuals, together as Canadians, humanly as united beings on one small fragile little planet. It's our world. 1979 has been designated by the United Nations as The Year of the Child, let's make it stand out let us show the world and our youth that we are interested - in them and their world.

GLEN CABS

SANTA CAB PLEASE

Glen Taxi had a new driver Friday. The face was vaguely familiar but one has to wonder how he found ground driving conditions as compared with aerial traffic conditions Monday evening. What's the idea Santa? Practising up to find those unfamiliar addresses?
