Raiders sign netminder to backup McDuffe

The newest Georgetown Raider is 17 year old Bill Humphreys who will be the team's backup goaltender.

General manager Jack Handy signed Humphreys to one of the team's three remaining unsigned cards Thursday night.

The move means that the Raiders now have three goaltenders again. Peter McDuffe and Mario MacDonald are also signed to cards.

On January 10 the Raiders released rookie Bill Masters.

Miller drafted by Metros

Continued from Page 27 for his education. Miller has talked with four universities, all in the Ivy league, and feels that all he has to worry about is staying in shape and getting good marks.

With the kind of determination Gord has already displayed chances are good that things will work out for him in the years to come.

Humphreys will more or less be a replacement for Masters.

It is not expected that the youngster will see much action as McDuffe will handle the bulk of the netminding chores.

Humphreys started the season with the Toronto Marlboros Junior "A" club and was one of the team's last cuts. He then played tied two Junior "A" in Aurora.

He was released there when the goaltender from last year's team returned after unsuccessfully trying to go pro.

Being signed by the Raiders gives the youngster an opportunity to observe a former National Hockey League player, McDuffe, in action and also keeps him on skates. Humphreys plans to try out for a Junior "A" team next year.
