Minor Pee Wees take first game in playdowns

The Georgetown United Rent-All Minor Pee Wees are up one game in their OMHA playdown series after a 3-1 victory.

Three different shooters tallied in the victory. After Owen Sound took the lead in the first period it was all Georgetown.

Danny King tied it up with the only marker of the second period with Wayne Morrow and Mike O'Brien drawing the assists.

Morrow tied the score on a solo effort in the third. Before the period was out Todd Cull added an insurance marker into a net which had been vacated in favor of a sixth attacker. Brent Smith and Stephen Turner drew the assists.

This series has all the makings of being a classic before a winner is declared.

On the weekend the Pee Wees travelled to a tournament in Stayner. Conjecture has it that the other teams in the tournament were major pee wee age.

In the first game Georgetown was shutout 7-0 by Stayner.

They bounced back with a 2-1 win over Oshawa in overtime. There was not any scoring in the first two periods. Oshawa took the lead with a goal in the third.

Shawn Coffey forced overtime when he scored from King and Turner.

In overtime Reiger scored the winning goal with Stephen Marcolini assisting.

In the final Georgetown was defeated 3-1 by Brampton.

Reiger had the only Georgetown goal with Turner assisting.

The second game of the Owen Sound series was up north last night. The two teams will return for the third game at Alcott Arena 7 p.m. Saturday.

Senior volleyballers lose to powerhouse

The Senior Girls Volleyball team lost their last regular season game of the year earlier this week to the hands of a powerful Oakville Trafalgar team in away action.

It was only the Rebelettes second league loss in two years but unfortunately a loss which dropped the Rebels into a third-place finish.

Oakville Trafalgar won the match three games to one. Georgetown won the first game 16-14 and looked strong according to their coach, Grant Clatworthy.

In the second game however, the Rebels fell behind early and lost by a score of 7-15.

"Inconsistency killed us, our serving was terrible again," Clatworthy stated.

In the third and deciding game the Rebels lost a close one by a score of 13-15.

In this game the Rebels found themselves behind early as Oakville built up a commanding lead of 0-9.

Clatworthy then decided to replace three of his starting players so, Carey Worrall, Beckey Halonen, Caroline Panabaker got the call to relieve.

With the fresh legs on the court the Rebels fought back to lead the game 12-9, but then lost their composure and ended up losing.

"The team lost by pure inexperience, they lost all team incentive. Also, the players are relying on veterans like Nancy Phillips to do all of the work," Clatworthy concluded.

The Rebelettes will now enter the playoffs in a round robin series against six other schools, Oakville Trafalgar, Purdue, Burlington Central, Nelson, and Lester Pearson.

They will play each team but unfortunately they are not scheduled to play at home.

Orangeville blanks Court Rose

The Georgetown Court Rose Intermediate Girls were defeated 3-0 by Orangeville Precast, but it was the girls best outing of the year.

The girls who have been practising hard, did not fall apart in the third period as Orangeville scored one in each period.

Donna Sedore played a very strong game on defense and Michelle Fisher was solid in the net.

Eighty - eight compete in new YBA

Eighty-eight local youngsters began play in the Youth Basketball Association last week.

The YBA, sponsored by the Georgetown YMCA and YWCA, will see action on two fronts two nights of the week. Grade 3, 4, 5 aged youngsters will play at Joseph Gibbons School on Thursdays and grades 6, 7, and 8 grade youngsters on Mondays at Georgetown district high school.

Paul Burroughs, the co-ordinator of the YBA, said that the Georgetown program has one of the largest memberships in this area.

"We stress fair play, equal court time and learning of the rules and skills," Burroughs said.

There are approximately the same number of males and females participating in the program. Since equal court time is stressed, girls are playing against boys throughout every contest.

"I think the girls are holding their own so far," Burroughs said.

This is the first year for the program in Georgetown. The YBA was started in the United States in 1973. It came to Canada four years ago.

Last week was the first week of actual competition, but the teams have been together and practising for four weeks now.

The people helping out in the program in some form or other are Blair Wilson, Sheila Finn, Irene McCauley, Wally and Jackie Frenske, Walter Jowett, Brian Preston, Larry and John Scott, Gary Southworth, Vic Estevan, Brian Bush, Chuck Bena, John Hodskin, Pat Brooker, Wendy Forsythe, Susan Snell and Debbi Iglesias.

Intermediate standings

The Thorold Athletics whipped the Dundas Merchants 12-5 in the surprise result in OHA Intermediate "A" play.

The Athletic victory sets up a battle between the two clubs for second place heading into the tail end of the season.
