Palm Sunday observed in Ballinafad church

By WINIFRED SMITH
Herald correspondent

Palm Sunday was observed on Sunday when a large number of worshippers attended church service. Seven new members were welcomed into the fellowship of the church. The confirmation ceremony was most impressive and inspiring as four young teenagers, and a young married woman pleaded their faith in the Christian way of life. They chose to put God first in their lives in the path that laid ahead. Those confirmed were Mrs. Eileen Cecelia Quackenbush, Dana Michelle Hancock, Christina May Quackenbush, Rene Marcel Schwartz and Peter Vestergaard Volmar. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lewis were welcomed by transfer of membership. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was celebrated this Sunday as it was in the older days of the Methodist church, with the congregation receiving the sacrament in the front of the church. The men's choir, under the direction of Mrs. Eileen McEnery sang a beautiful anthem. During the taking up of the offering, Miss Jean

Law sang beautifully the hymn "Let There Be Peace On Earth". It was announced there would be a Good Friday morning service, beginning at 11:45 a.m.

As we all know winter came back with a vengeance last week. It was the first day all winter the school buses could not run, so children had a long weekend holiday. Several events had to be cancelled, including the W.I. Euchre party which had been planned for last Friday evening. Winter is still with us. Looking outside it looks more like a day in January than the 31st of April. Hopefully it will be more spring-like for the Easter weekend coming up.

We were sorry to hear of the death this past weekend of Mr. Nick Carter of Georgetown. He will be remembered by the W.I. members in Ballinafad as he was invited to one of their meetings a year or so ago. Mr. and Mrs. Carter were present to show slides of interesting pictures of the far east. They were thoroughly enjoyed by every one there. He was a brother-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gwen. Sympathy is extended to them in their loss.

Mrs. Nettie Hurren, who has been a guest of the Marshalls for the past couple of weeks, left on Saturday to spend a few days with her niece in Petawawa. From there she will leave for her home in Manitoba.

Now the month of April is here, the whole earth is throwing off its winter sleep and waking in millions of miracles, the fields, trees and gardens and nature all show the little seeds and bulbs in the earth which have been beneath the snow coming through sending up new shoots and shrubs. Also, spring is a good time for Easter with life bursting from every patch of soil and buds bursting forth on the branches. Ring Easter bells, ring cheerily, a welcome to the flowers, that peep their heads shyly, beneath the woodland bowers. Call forth the sleeping petals in where winter's snows have lain, Ring Easter bells, ring cheerily, for Spring has come again.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wilson returned on April second from a two week visit with their daughter and son in law Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williamson and family in Burleson Texas. They also visited a few days with Mrs. Williamson Sr. in Grandbury Texas.

First Pineview Brownies went to Hilton Falls on Saturday, March 10 for a winter hike and worked on the Outdoor Adventure badge. Brown Owl showed how to make a fire and the girls toasted marshmallows over it, before heading out to follow a marked trail.

On March 14, the 1st Hornby Rovers entertained us with humorous skits on home safety and first aid. Five of our Brownies who will be flying up this year visited the Guide Company and enjoyed an evening learning to make Indian masks.

Those girls who earned badges this past month are: Jacqueline Gerrits - Outdoor Adventure; Esther Gerrits - Outdoor Adventure and Collector; Brenda Wilson - Housekeeper; Janelle Lewis - Cook; Julie Wicks - Housekeeper and Outdoor Adventure; Sandi Brandner - Housekeeper; Cheryl Williams - Collector; Wendy Brunelle - Thrift and Craft; Pauline Sharpe - Outdoor Adventure; Janet Sharpe - Cook and Outdoor Adventure.

Kissing assets

During the course of time, one mentally stores away little snippets of trivia. One such item, buried somewhere in the labyrinth of my mind, is that the first president of the United States, George Washington, was one of the earliest recorded men to wear false teeth - carefully constructed from wood.

My efforts at substantiating this fact were not very successful. While I found pages of information on his battlefield achievements at Fort Duquesne, Valley Forge and the Delaware, nowhere could I discover anything about the state of his teeth.

However, if one were to accept this as an historical fact, it would certainly explain why, with great foresight, he chopped down his daddy's cherry tree - the wood had to age sufficiently to prevent him from painfully munching on slivers, along with the french fries, in his later years.

LESS TIME

Now, medical science having progressed in leaps and bounds since the 18th century, George would no doubt be surprised to discover that if he had spent a little less time on the battlefield and a lot more time at home, kissing and cuddling his wife, Martha, he may never have been reduced to sporting cherry wood choppers.

Yes, according to Etobicoke's own director of the community health department dental division, Dr. Sam Green, the now famous North American tooth fairy, kissing prevents cavities.

This is the best news the public has had in years. Why has this marvelous man not been elected to lead our country out of the abyss? Wholesale kissing at the Canadian public could, apparently, not only make our teeth a shining example to the rest of the world, but solve our entire unity problem in one big bear hug.

We would have Ontarians bussing Albertans; Montréalers nibbling on the lips of Ottawa's civil servants; housewives sighing in the mailmen's ears; reformed criminals blowing kisses to the RCMP over the wiretaps and the mafia sending fan letters with XXX's and OOO's to the C.B.C. Why, only the most unchivalrous, totally cavalier, could argue oil costs, separatism and labour problems around a thoroughly healthy kiss.

NOT DIFFICULT

It is not even too difficult to imagine, once having enjoyable cleared up our own domestic strife, spreading the Canadian message of sound teeth and love around the globe; saturating the international scene with buttons and bumper stickers proclaiming: stop tooth decay - kiss an I'di Amin today!

MEET THE PRESIDENT

BOB LAW

Georgetown Palette and Pencil Club president Bob Law has been with the organization for five years. He spent two years as its treasurer and this is his first term as president.

The club originated with a group of night school students who formed an organization in order to keep up their connection with each other and with their instructor, Frank Black, once their course was finished. The group now has about 25 members working in a variety of medias including pen and ink, water colours, oils and acrylics. Group members meet every Tuesday evening in the art room at Centennial Middle School to work on their own particular project. Annual membership dues are $15. While this is not a teaching group members tend to help each other through praise and criticism of each other's work and Mr. Black is still with them, Mr. Law says. The club will hold its 13th annual show at the North Halton Golf and Country Club later this month and many of the members are involved with a show in Norval this coming weekend.

Club members also display their art at numerous locations around town such as the hospital, the hydro office, one of the banks and doctors and lawyers offices. The work rotates on a three month basis.

Mr. Law and his wife Ruth have lived in Georgetown for 10 years. He teaches art and mathematics at Peel Village Senior Public School. Among his specialties are doing landscapes in oils and also painting bird plaques. He also does black and white sketches for notepaper. He lists collecting pottery, stamps and native art among his hobbies and says he also likes to travel.
