

Sunocos fight back with two victories

The Georgetown Raiders fell apart in games four and five at Port Elgin allowing the Sunocos to get back into the Intermediate "A" final with 7-3 and 6-2 victories. The Raiders had won the first three games of the series.

"We just played awful hockey in those two games," said Raider coach Gerry Inglis. "Peter McDuffe (Raider netminder) would have been justified in suing his defense for non-support".

Inglis said the small rink in Port Elgin was the major reason for the Sunocos victories.

"You have to play a different style of hockey in that small rink," the Raider coach said. "It's dump it in and forecheck. They did that better than we did in those two games."

In the 7-3 Port Elgin it was Dean Symons, the Sunocos' leading scorer during the regular season, who did most of the damage.

BIG GAME

The centreman, who does not have much speed or size but plenty of savvy, scored two goals and set up the same number.

The game was not very dirty, but rough, as there were 12 minors handed out to the Sunocos and 17 minors and a game misconduct administered to the Raiders.

In the first period both McDuffe and his counterpart at the other end of the rink, John Blair, were tough to beat.

The Raiders scored first when Colin Gordon, by far the best Raider skater on the night, tallied on a power play effort. Scott McKenzie and Ray Tonelli set him up.

The Sunocos got even when Symons scored at the 8:30 mark of the period.

In the Raider victories in the series Georgetown took control with strong second periods. This time Port Elgin turned the tables tallying four in the second period to the Raiders' one.

GOOD CHANCES

The Sunocos only got 10 shots on McDuffe in that second period, but they were all good chances.

It only took the Sunocos 2:47 of the second period to jump ahead. Rick Ens was the marksman.

Less than two minutes later the Raiders got that goal back when Bill Currie scored from McKenzie and Gordon. It too came on the powerplay.

Before the midway point of the period the Sunocos tallied twice less than one minute apart to go ahead by two. Murray Codean and Joe Ens beat McDuffe.

Before the end of the period Joe Ens pocketed his second goal of the game and the Sunocos were up by three.

"We only had three or four guys going all out in those games up north," the coach said. "Peter was left all by himself on most of their goals".

The Raiders got back into the game for awhile when Gordon got his second of the night at the 1:29 mark of the third period. Juri Kudrasovs and Peter Sturgeon set him up.

However, Sunocos came up with two more quick goals before the midway point to put the game out of reach.

Doug Wood and Symons tallied of 25 blasts.

McDuffe was forced to make 29 saves in the game while Blair stepped in front

TOSSED OUT
Late in the game Raider defenseman Ron Fogal, who did not enjoy one of his better outings, was tossed out of the game.

The story was much the size in the 6-2 Sunoco win as most of the Raiders approached the contest as if they wanted to take the cup at home in the sixth game.

This time the Sunocos did not take long to make a rout of it as they built up a 5-0 lead before the Raiders got on the board.
