Golf: exclusively for women who want to get in the swing

Golf has traditionally been a sport dominated by males. But ever since Babe Didrickson in the 1930s made it acceptable for women to participate, more and more women have taken up the game.

Since golf requires more accuracy than strength, a woman can become a fine golfer. It's a great way to combine exercise with getting into the social swing of things.

Playing golf can also bring the married woman closer to her golfer husband, because she is able to play and discuss the game with him.

If you would like to try your hand at golf, here are a few tips from the experts at PGA Golf to get you started:

- The best way to learn the game of golf is to take lessons from a professional. Start with a series of six lessons and then take one a month to keep your game on target. If you do not belong to a club with a teaching professional, find the most convenient public or semi-private course with an instructor.

- Don't try to save money by playing with your husband's, brother's or boyfriend's clubs. The proper set of clubs is the foundation of your golf game. Even in this era of equality it's an anatomical fact that women play golf differently than men.

- Your clubs should be designed to complement your game. Women's clubs offered by most manufacturers are merely cut-down, dressed-up versions of men's clubs. But the Butterfly clubs from PGA Golf are designed exclusively for the woman golfer—functionally as well as cosmetically.

Because women's hands are shaped differently than men's, the grip of each Butterfly club is built up under the right hand to accommodate longer fingernails, and a positive taper Tacki-Mac™ will not transfer color to hands or clothing. The lightweight steel shafts are flexdesigned for a woman's swing. Since women tend to swing slowly, the Butterfly irons' flange lowers the center of grav-

DESIGNED SPECIFICALLY for a woman's game is the Butterfly series of golf clubs from PGA Golf. Each iron and wood is weighted at the bottom of the club so a woman's swing can get the ball airborne easily, quickly and accurately.

Don't be guilty of 'home pollution'!

Are you guilty of "home pollution"? Most people don't think of it that way, points out the National Fire Protection Association, but a house can become "polluted" when combustible clutter is permitted to pile up.

Make spring clean-up time "clean-out time" at your house, urges NFPA. Combustibles create danger in the home environment because they provide the starting place and fuel for a fire which could destroy your home and put the lives of your family in jeopardy. Typical offenders which accumulate almost unnoticed include broken-down furniture, lamp shades, mattresses, draperies, old magazines, used clothing and similar items.

ity to help get the ball airborne while the wide flange sole prevents digging in.

Butterfly woods also concentrate the weight at the bottom of the clubhead so a woman's swing can get the ball into the air easily for long straight shots. These features could improve your game.

A complete set of clubs consists of: eight irons—three through nine—plus a dual wedge; four woods, one, three, five and seven; and a putter.

This group of clubs allows the player to be ready for every conceivable shot.

- Have a golf professional fit your clubs to your height and swing.

- Select a golf bag that is functional, and allows ample room for your clubs, extra balls, and accessories.

- Play with a Surlyn cover ball, like the Butterfly ball from PGA. A Surlyn cover resists cuts and therefore has a long playing life.

Increased leisure time and golf equipment designed specifically for women seem to indicate that the time is right to become a member of the club of women golfers!
