

Georgetown runners are champs

Local runners were busy this week on the school circuit. Several schools in the area are busily running cross country meets. Stewarttown Public, Centennial Middle, and Georgetown high all competed this week.

Wednesday at the East York cross country races, held at Taylor Creek in Don Mills the Georgetown high school won the overall boys' team title and the girls' title for the first time, as well as the best overall school of 50 participating. By computing the top four runners for the school, their finishing places were totalled and the lowest score won.

Ian Clark led the boys' team with a first in the senior boys' race while Doug Smith came second in the junior race. Mark Ezard was third in the midget final. Top girls were Kim Newcombe in fifth spot in the midget category. Sherry Finucan was also fifth in the junior race and Heather McLaren was 14th in the senior division. All races had over 100 competitors in each.
