

Scouter wins medal of merit

Gord Douglas, a well-known member of the North Halton Scout movement has received the medal of merit for his outstanding contribution to the movement during the past 17 years.

Mr. Douglas was presented with a letter Nov. 21 telling him he had received the award but the actual medal will be presented at a later date. It is the second highest honor available to members of the movement.

Although he was never in Scouting as a boy, Mr. Douglas says he had read enough about it to want his own sons involved when they reached the appropriate age. Six months after his eldest son enrolled in Cubs in the First Norval pack, the leader left and Mr. Douglas became an assistant. The next year he took over as the pack's leader.

He spent two years as Scout master in Norval then took over the Eighth Georgetown Scout Troop. He then became assistant district commissioner for training for a year. He followed that with five years as district commissioner.

In 1977-78, Mr. Douglas became assistant district commissioner for scouts and is now a member of the provincial council and regional Venturer co-ordinator.

"Gord tells the most unbelievable-believable stories," according to his colleagues, and his nature stories make him a favourite at boys and girls camps alike.
