Banff's new chariots to the sun

Sunshine Village, nestled in a high, alpine snow bowl above Banff, Alberta, Canada has long been regarded as a ski area that makes you feel good...and if it makes you feel good, isn't that what skiing is all about?

Until this year, getting up and back down from Sunshine involved a shuttle bus climb and descent that rated as the toughest daily test in all of Canada for automotive transmissions and brakes. Once arrived, soaring above the open, snow-blanketed slopes in as ski chair was a welcome relief to most skiers.

The switch-backs and the hair-raising bus runs are now a part of history as the long-awaited gondola, veritable chariots in the sun, will float skiers up to the big bowl from now on.

the Tea House Chair at Norquay, I automatically check the hips to see if he also wears a gun."

Restaurants and hotel dining?...there was a time in this fair town, maybe a decade or two ago, when Smith's Pancake House rated four star among Banff's more discerning diners. Smitty's is still tops in its class, particularly for breakfast fare but a conservative estimate would give you at least a dozen top rated choices for evening dining in Banff today...bon bon appetit.

For general information regarding winter vacations in Canada, contact the Canadian Government Office of Tourism, Ottawa, Canada, K1A 0H6.

The lower terminal for the gondola is 22km (14 miles) from town and is accessible by scheduled bus service or by private vehicles which are left for the day in the base (Bourgeois) parking lot.

The new high speed gondola's six-passenger cabins can move 1800 skiers per hour up to the village at tree line. Here the chair lifts take over to carry you up into the beautiful rarefied world of high alpine skiing.

Sunshine Village is noted for two particularly enjoyable features—consistently terrific snow conditions and terrain that allows the average recreational skier to ski with the wind in his teeth.

Banff, a prettier alpine town would be hard to find, is the action centre for accommodation ranging from modern, posh and luxurious to one or two hostels that are so old that the local museum keeps eyeing the plumbing fixtures.

Even if you're not registered as a guest, the baronial (no other adjective applies) splendour of the addition of fine intermediate and novice terrain, still retains its reputation as a challenge area.

splendour of the Banff Springs Hotel, backgrounded by the wintertime scenery of the Canadian Rockies, is a stirring sight to behold.

Above Banff, like a stairway to the sky, is Mount Norquay, a mountain that in spite of the addition of fine intermediate and novice terrain, still retains its reputation as a challenge area.

To be known as a Norquay skier, a North American and Bow Run addict in Banff, rates you a little extra space in the bystos at day's end.

As one impressionable Banff Sophomore explained, "when a dude tells me he skis

Obituary

Ashgrove loses oldest resident

Ashgrove's oldest resident, Arthur Ruddle, died Nov. 29 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ward Brownridge, in RR2, Georgetown. He was 96.

Mr. Ruddle was born and raised on Lot 9, Concession 7, Esquesing, and farmed there until his son took over in the late 1950s. It was the family homestead when the Ruddells first arrived from Ireland in 1840. Mr. Ruddle attended the Ashgrove school and later served on its school board and on the Esquesing Township-Area school board. He was a member of Ashgrove United Church and later Hillcrest United Church and served on many church boards. His early memories included membership in the Sons of Temperance, which used to meet in Hornby. He also enjoyed debating. He was a dairy farmer and belonged to the Halton County Holstein Association for many years.

Mr. Ruddle leaves his wife, Floella Howden, two children, Betty Brownridge and Howson Ruddle, nine grandchildren and three great grandchildren. He is also survived by two sisters, Estelle (Mrs. Percy Laidlaw) of Norval, and Olive Ruddle of Mapleview Lodge, Acton. He was predeceased by a daughter, Joy Anderson, a sister Florence (Mrs. R.H. Wright) and a brother Edgar Ruddle.

He rested at the McCure-Jones Funeral Home in Georgetown with the funeral service being conducted from Hillcrest United Church at 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1. Interment followed in Ashgrove cemetery.
