

Rounding up 1979: the year in photos

Ed Stanley was one of many young people in Halton Hills whose hard work was recognized this year. Ed received an honorable mention for his entry in the annual Fire Prevention Poster contest. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stanley, Halton Hills Fire Prevention Officer Larry Brassard and Mayor Pete Pomeroy joined in congratulating him at the regional council meeting in February when the winners were presented to council. A number of awards were handed out to Halton Hills' younger citizens this year, including the Optimist Club's Youth of the Year award.

Joyce and Irwin Noble became Georgetown's Citizens of the Year for 1979 when their peers, led by the Lions Club, gathered March 2 for a special banquet and ceremony. The long-time Georgetown residents continue to be involved in numerous public service, community and charity activities.

Town's honored citizens earned public recognition

Years of affiliation with the NDP and a number of community service organizations in the Georgetown area were commemorated Feb. 17 at a special dinner for Morley Mills, shown here flanked by wife Lauretta and master of ceremonies Bill Johnson, a Milton regional councillor and long-time friend.

Stella Ellis, Georgetown's oldest and most ardent hockey fan, celebrated her 90th birthday and her 14th year as a resident of the town on March 18.

Tom Hill (left), the first mayor of Halton Hills, was presented with a framed portrait of himself last March. Mr. Hill was defeated in the December election by the present mayor, Pete Pomeroy, who is shown presenting the portrait which now hangs in the town's council chambers. After the election, Mr. Hill retired to observe the progress of his successor.

Roy Norton of Glen Williams, seen here with wife Helen, was the recipient of Georgetown's Hockey Heritage Award Feb. 13. Mr. Norton holds a photo of himself which was among the gifts presented to him for his work in hockey promotion at a banquet attended by some 400 of his fans.

"HALTON HILLS WINTERFEST DAY"

Whereas the Regional Winter Carnival held in previous years at Kelso Conservation has been cancelled this year and is now the responsibility of each municipality within the region, and,

whereas the Georgetown Jaycees, as part of a continuing series of projects aimed at providing cultural and recreational benefits to the community have undertaken to organize a winter carnival in our town, whereas this type of program contributes to the distinct identity of our town, now therefore be it, resolved, that I, Peter Pomeroy, Mayor of the Town of Halton Hills, proclaim Saturday, January 19th, 1980, as "Halton Hills Winterfest Day".

Signed at the Town of Halton Hills this 3rd day of December in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and seventy-nine.
