

Ann Geh and Barbara Sheln show one of the posters which have been distributed for the day-long Women Aware workshops. The workshops have been filling up quickly, with the assertiveness and career planning workshops turning out to be the most popular. Deadline for registrations is April 1. (Herald photo)

Women Aware deadline April 1

Deadline for registration for Women Aware, a day-long series of workshops on issues affecting women, is April 1. The seminar is being organized by the Georgetown University Women's Club and will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The day will feature an address by Lorna Marsden, 1975-77 president of the National Action Committee on the Status of Women, professor of sociology and Associate Dean in the School of Graduate Studies at the University of Toronto. There are seven workshops available. Women registering for the workshops should provide two alternative choices in case their first choice is not available. Workshops include: Assertiveness and You, Maintaining a Positive Self-Image, Career Planning-Direction and Change, Economic Realities-Money Management, Violence Against Women, The Second Fifty Years, and Female Sexuality. The registration fee of $5 will include the cost of lunch. Registration forms are available by calling 877-8691, 877-6075 or 877-5408.

Theft charges laid

Two juveniles and one adult have been charged following an investigation by Halton Regional Police into a series of thefts.

As a result of the investigation, police have recovered a number of stolen automobile hood ornaments. None of these have been identified, and police are asking people who have had hood ornaments stolen to come into the station and they may be able to identify their missing property.

A number of citizens' band radios and car stereo units have also been recovered, but these have been identified.
