THE MCGIBBON HOTEL

George Markou

George and Nick Markou have been running the McGibbon Hotel for more than a year now and have done a lot of renovating to the hotel's interior. "Our aim is to go back to a turn of the century neighborhood pub, and that's what we gear the decorating to," George says.

Since taking over George feels that business has turned around and he finds the hotel has a lot of return business.

Jessie Hayes does the cooking for the hotel's dining room and also for the pub lunches.

"Jessie's cooking is very good and nourishing," George says. "Her specialty is roast beef and it's at a reasonable price."

The hotel serves Labatts Blue and Molson's Export on draft as well as a full line of domestic bottled beer. Imported beers include Bass, Lowenbrau, Heinek and Schlitz. There is also a full range of liquor and liqueurs.

"As long as we do what we do best, we'll get the business," George says. "This applies to all the downtown merchants. There is no way a chain store can offer the service the small businessman can and that's why this downtown will always do well."

THE HOT BED

Eileen Garde

Eileen Garde has owned the Hot Bed on Mill Street for two years and feels she couldn't have a better location.

Eileen sells Canadian pottery and crafts made both in Halton Hills and across Canada.

"The biggest selling item is pottery, but we do sell other things on consignment such as paintings," she says. "I also do drapes and curtains to order and help people co-ordinate these things with their decor."

Some of the local artists that have paintings for sale are Marjorie Nazer, Lotte Zonnenberg, Gretchen Day, Robert Law, Ruth Gibson and Ann Blair.

"All the people who make things for my shop belong to the Halton Hills Arts Council and will have exhibits at the upcoming Summerfest," Eileen says.

The Hot Bed also sells stained glass made by local artist Albert Dewdney.

Eileen and her family live in Caledon where they enjoy cross-country skiing in the winter and horseback riding in the summer.

THE COUNTRY CHEESE SHOPPE

Audrey Maxworth

The Cheese Shop has been open for just over a year now and has recently expanded its business to include a wide assortment of health foods.

Bio-Gen, which used to be in the Old Bank, has relocated in The Cheese Shop on Mill Street.

The shop has many imported cheeses as well as domestic. "Customers will ask for a cheese and it's generally here," Audrey Maxworth, manageress of the shop, reports. "If we don't have it, we are more than pleased to order it."

One of the services provided by the shop is catering for wine and cheese parties. They will provide cheese trays for customers and will make them to your specifications.

The shop also provides 180 bulk health food products and hopes to expand. Some of the products include grains, flours, granola and fruits and nuts.

There are herbal remedies, beauty aids and more than 50 different kinds of tea as well as gourmet cook books.

For children and adults suffering from allergies the store carries a line of gluten-free products.
