One of two brothers who apprenticed with weekly newspapers in Halton Hills and went on to establish their own businesses, George Lake died in Toronto recently.

Mr. Lake, who would have been 90 later this month, was born in Orillia, the son of Thomas and Mary Baker Lake. The family moved to Georgetown when George was a youngster.

Two of the Lake children decided on newspaper careers and George began his apprenticeship with The Herald while Joe started a similar trade with the Acton

Free Press. Both headed north, Joe to start a weekly newspaper in Powassan and George in Timmins, following jobs in Hanover and Halleybury.

His newspaper, The Porcupine Advance, ceased publication some years ago, but the commercial printing business in Timmins is still conducted by his son, Merton.

Mr. Lake retired in the mid-1930s, moving to Thornhill, but continued to be active in the newspaper business as a director of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

His sister, Lucy Feller, 2

King Street, is the last member of a family of ten. A brother, Charles of Peterborough, died earlier this year at age 92, and he was predeceased by Thomas of Toronto, Ted of Orillia, Mary Stumpf, Elmira, Elizabeth Garvin, Barrie, Joseph of Powassan and a brother and sister in childhood.

He leaves six children, Merton of Timmins, Jack, Ronald and Mrs. Douglas Brown (Gwendolyn) of Toronto; Larry of Woodstock and Mrs. Peter Tobias (Kathleen) of Huntsville; 14 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.
